THE CHICAGO DAILY NEWS

ALMANAC AND YEAR-BOOK

FOR

1911

COMPILED BY JAMES LANGLAND, M. A.

ISSUED BY

THE CHICAGO DAILY NEWS COMPANY

[Copyright, 1910, by, The Chicago Daily News Co.

PREFACE.

Among other matters of special interest contained in the present issue of The Daily News Almanac and Year-Book mention may be made of the following:

The new postal savings bank law of the United States. This is regarded as one of the most important pieces of legislation in recent years, for which reason the text of the act is given in full.

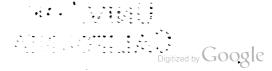

The amendments to the interstate-commerce law, including provisions for a commerce court to supplement the work of the commission.

Details of the old-age and industrial pension systems of various countries of the world. In view of proposed state and national legislation on this subject it is believed that the information given is timely and suggestive.

Results of the thirteenth decennial census of the United States, showing the growth of population in the various states and territories and in the principal cities. The county population will be found in the election tables.

State, congressional and local elections in 1910, showing a marked reversal of political sentiment in many parts of the country.

These are but a few of the many new and old features which should make The Daily News Almanac and Year-Book for 1911 a reference work of exceptional value. It may also be noted that in the effort to add to the general usefulness and comprehensiveness of the book it has been found necessary to increase its size by thirty-two pages, making the total in this issue 640.

CHRONOLOGICAL CYCLES.

rence of the Dominical or Sunday Letter. This would be the case every seven years but for leap year, hence four times seven is the cycle or twenty-eight years. It is the remainder found by adding nine to the year and dividing the sum by twenty-eight. The Roman Indiction is a cycle of fifteen years and is of no utility except to chronologers. It is the remainder found by adding three to the year and dividing by fifteen. The Julian Period is a cycle of 7,980 years and is the product of the three cycles. Golden Number (19). Solar Cycle (28) and Roman Indiction (15), and hence shows the time when these cycles will coincide, or begin at the same time. The first of this cycle will be completed in the year 2267; it is the year + 4713. The Dionyslan Period is a cycle of 532 years and is called the great Paschal cycle, being the product of a completed solar and lunar cycle (28×19). It is the remainder found by adding 457 to the year and dividing by 532, and with the Julian Period is chiefly used by chronologers. The Jewish Lunar Cycle is always three less than the Golden Number and is used by the Jews in fixing the time of their festivals.

Note—To ascertain any day of the week first look in the table for the year required and under the months are figures which refer to the corresponding figures at the head of the columns of days below. For example: To know on what day of the week July 4 was in the year 1895, in the table of years look for 1896, and in a parallel line, under July, is figure 1, which directs to column 1, in which it will be seen that July 4 falls on Thursday.

b) As a morning star Feb. 1-5 and Sept. 23-30, rising about 1h. 15m. before the sun, being at greatest angular distance west of the sun Feb. 2 (25°) and Sept. 25 (18°). When brightest in February the milkmaid's dipper in F will be about 10° west of him, and in September the Sickle in 6 will be about 15° degrees west of him. VENUS (9), the "queen of beauty," and whose sign is a looking glass, will be a most attractive celestial object nearly all of the year. Twice she will be at her very brightest—first, Aug. 8-12, as an evening star, and again after passing between the earth and sun (inferior conjunction) as a morning star, Oct. 21-25. (See Table of the Planets and Chart of Visibility of the Planets.) Venus not only attains a greater degree of brilliancy than any of the other planets, but at such times, and for about a month before and after, she will show a large crescent phase like the moon between new and the quarters. At the October date she will shine with unusual splendor, in the absence of the annexed figure shows all the various phases through which the planet passes, the telescope shows the boundaries away from the sun to be irregular. The light will blend off and the margins will be more or less jagged, owing to the refraction of the sunlight in the planet's atmosphere and the irregularities of her surface, mountains, etc. The discovery of these phases was the work of the first telescope in the hands of Gailleo, though their existence was believed earlier.

As seen in the morning west of sun.

As seen in the evening east of sun.

Explanation

A—Fifteen days before superior conjunction or June 20, 1912.

B—At greatest elongation (angular distance) west of the sun, Nov. 26, 1911.

C—When brightest as a morning star, Oct. 21-25,

D-Just after inferior conjunction, Sept. 20, 1911. E-Fifteen days after superior conjunction, or July Southing and Setting of the Planets," etc. Locate the planets in the zodiac on the chart and then follow them in their course past the stars, noting when they are in conjunction with the moon, stars or other planets.

MARS (x) will be brightest as an eveni an all-night star.

Several new canals were discovered on Mars in 1900, evidently the works of the Martians within the past few years; snow storms were also observed on Mars by Prof. Lowell of Flagstaff, Ariz.

JUPITER (2) will be at & April 20, when he will be brightest and an evening and all-night star. Inasmuch as 2 requires twelve of our years in which to make a revolution about the sun and pass all the stars of the zodiac his movement from time to time will be very slight as compared to that of the planets whose orbits are interior to his. as he traverses only one sign in a year. He still in and during the first days of February he will be very close (1° north) to the brightest star in that constellation—Alpha Librae, situated on the celiptic and being the southwest star of the square of Libra. The last of November he will pass out of and east of the square and at the close of the year be about 8° east of its easternmost star. (See Tables of Occultations, Conjunc tions, etc.) Of the seven satellites known to belong to Jupiter orly four can be easily seen by the aid of small glasses. These satellites do not undergo the same changes in brilliancy that our moor. does owing to the fact that 2 is a semisun and his moons are supplied in part by himself, while our moon borrows her entire supply of light from the sup. (See the following tables) of light from the sun. (See the following tables.)

sett, white our moon borrows are entire supply of light from the sun. (See the following tables.)

SATURN (b), will be brightest Nov. 9 as an evening and all-night star, and will be very bright for a considerable time before and after that time. Inasmuch as two and one-half years are required for him to pass through one sign or constellation it is evident we can scarcely detect any charge in position with respect to the stars from month to month. He is in T. Of his large family of satellites—ten in all-only one (Titan), is ordinarily visible with a three-inch telescope, but the wonderful ring system is always visible in such an instrument except when the earth is crossing their plane, every fifteen years. Each year, however, the earth attains a maximum elevation above their plane and at such times the ring system is best observed. This occurs in August, about the time of the western quadrature of b. From August on he will be only a few degrees west of the Flelades and Hyades, URANUS (6) will be brightest July 20 and will grees west of the Flelades and Hyades, URANUS (a) will be brightest July 20 and will not be near any bright or conspicuous star. Perhaps the best time for an amateur to locate this planet will be at its close conjunction with dwarch il, when 6 will be seen for several days only one-third of a degree (or about one-half the moon's apparent ditmeter) north of d. To see this planet with the unaided eye is a test of good eyestebt

NEPTUNE (v), the outermost known of our planetary family, will be brightest Jan. 11, in x, a few degrees south of Castor and Pollux. It is stated that a good opera or field glass will show at the time of $\tilde{\text{P}}$ or when brightest, provided one knows just where to 160k. Look for It on a line from Castor to Procyon and nearly midway between those stars with a fine cluster of dim stars just to the west stars just to the west.

NUMBER OF THE STARS.

According to the best astronomers the number of stars that can be seen by a person of average eyesight is only about 7.000. The number visible Young at 100.000,000 and by Profs. Newcomb and eyesight is only about 7.000.

EXPLANATION-The chart of the heavens shows all the bright stars and groups visible in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Cuba and Hawaii. Stars of the third magnitude are sometimes shown in order to complete a figure.

times shown in order to complete a figure.

If a bright uncharted body be seen near the "ecliptic circle" it must be a planet. To locate the planets or moon, refer to the tables "position of planets" and "moon's place" in the almanac nages, find the proper signs on the chart on the "ecliptic circle" and an inspection of that part of the heavens, comparing with the chart, will serve to identify the planet and all the surpositions of these terms of the surpositions of the chart, will serve to identify the planet and all the surpositions. rounding objects.

Because of the earth's motion from west to east (opposite to the direction of the arrow in the chart), the stars rise 4m. earlier each day or 80m. per week, or 2h. a month. The chart shows the position at 9 p. m. Then if the position for any other hour be desired, as for 7 p. m., count back one month, or ahead one month for 11 p. m., and so on for any hour of the night.

A circle described from the zenith on the zenith circle" for the desired latitude with a radius of 90° (see graduated meridian) will show what stars are above the horizon. Thus Capclia is near the overhead (zenith) point on latitude 40° north Jan. 15, 9 p. m., as will be Algenib in the handle of the Big Dipper at 3 a. m. Then from Capella or Algenib all the surrounding visible groups can be identified. The "pointers" being 5° apart and always in sight may be used as a convenient unit of measure; also when visible the Belt of Orion, 3°, or the sides of the square of Pegasus. The observer is always supposed to stand under the overhead point and to face south and north alternately.

EXAMPLES—Venus will be east of the sun, an evening star, and increasing her angular distance from the sun until July 7, and will be brightest Aug. 10, when much nearer the sun After this she approaches the sun and decreases in brightness to invisibility Sept. 15, when at inferior conjunction, or exactly between the earth and sun. She reappears, shortly after her conjunction, west of the sun as a morning star and again widens her distance from the sun until Nov. 26, being brightest Oct. 22. Thus it will be seen that she may be at her brightest twice in one year, but never when farthest from the sun as in the but never when farthest from the sun as in the case of the superior planets.

Mars starts in the year as a morning star and gradually grows in brightness as he recedes from the sun until Nov. 25, when he will be at opposition, or 180° from the sun, rising at sunset and shining all night. He will begin to be seen in the evening hours Aug. 9, and by about Dec. 1 he may very properly be called an "all-night star," appearing equally in the evening and morning hours.

THE EARTH AND THE MOON.

Earth—The equatorial diameter of the earth is 7,926.5 miles and the polar diameter 7,899.5 miles; equatorial circumference, 25,000. The linear velocity of the rotation of the earth on its axis at the equator is 24,840 miles a day, or 1,440 feet a second; its velocity in its orbit around the sun is approximately nineteen miles per second, the length of the orbit being about 560,000,000 miles. The superficial area of the earth according to Encke, the astronomer, is 197,108,580 s. uare miles, of which two-thirds is water and one third land. The planetary mass is about 256,000,000 coulc miles.

miles, of which two-thirds is water and one-third land. The planetary mass is about 256,-000,000 cubic miles.

Moon—The moon has a diameter of 2,162 miles, a circumference of about 6,800 miles and a surface area of 14.685,000 square miles. Her mean distance from the earth is 238.840 miles. The volume of the moon is about 1-49th that of the earth and the density about 3 2-5 that of water. The time from new moon to new moon is 29 days 12 hours 44.05 minutes. The moon has no atmosphere and no water and is a dead world.

VELOCITY OF LIGHT.

Light travels at the rate of 186,300 miles per second. It requires 8 minutes and 8 seconds for light to come from the sun to the earth.

^{*}Moon lowest of the year June 11. †Moon highest of the year December 5.

Explanation of signs: TAries. & Taurus. X Gemini. @Cancer. Ω Leo. To Virgo. — Libra. To Scorpio A Satitarius. & Capricornus. — Aquarius. X Pisces. The place indicated for the planets is for the 1st, 2d d, th and 5th Bundays of each month, in the order of the planets.

Note—The moon will run "high" from "lowest" to "highest," and run "low" from "highest" to "lowest." The full moon will be highest of the year at meridian passage Dec. 16 and lowest June 22. She will begin to run lower March 21 and decrease in altitude until June 22 and then increase (run higher) until Dec. 21, after which she will gradually get lower until June 22. This is because the full moon must always be on the opposite side of the earth from the sun, and hence when the sun is lowest in declination the moon must be highest and when the sun is highest the moon must be lowest. The inclination of the earth's axis to the plane of the ecliptic (sun's apparent path) being 23½° and that of the moon being 5° to the ecliptic it follows that the total swing from highest to lowest must be (23½+5) ×2=57°.

Explanation—By the absolute scale of magnitudes stars brighter than Aldebaran and Altair are indicated by fractional or negative quantities, thus Vega 0.2 and Sirius—1.4. As the magnitudes increase the brilliancy decreases, each increase of a unit being equal to a decrease of about two and one-half in brightness.

To ascertain when any star or constellation will be on the upper meridian add the number opposite in the column "For Meridian Passage" to the figures in the following table "Sidereal Noon." taking note whether such figures be "Morn." or "Epve." If Morn. and the sum is more than 12h. the result will be Eve. of same day; if Eve. and the sum is more than 12h. the result will be Morn. of the next day. Having found the time of meridian passage, for the rising subtract and for the setting add the numbers opposite the star in the column headed "For Rising and Setting" and observe the direction as to Morn. and Evc. given for the meridian passage. Those marked (.....) in the last column are circumpolar and do not rise or set in the latitude of New York city. Stars having an asterisk (*) in the last column are only to be seen in the far south and then when near the meridian, as the vapors of the horizon will prevent seeing them when they rise or set. To tell how high from the nearest point of the horizon a star will be at its meridian passage, subtract the star's declination from 90° and if the result is less that the latitude of the place of the observer that star will neither rise nor set, but is circumpolar, and the difference between that result and the latitude shows the star's altitude above the north point of the horizon or below the southern horizon. Or (90°—Dec.)—lat., = alt. or elevation of the star above the nearest point of the horizon at meridian passage for stars of south. dec. Examples:

Sidereal noon, Oct. 30, 9:28 Fomalhaut "In Merid." col., 22:48 9:28 p. m.

Subtract, 24:00

8:16 p. m. of the 31st, time of meridian passage.

Fomalhaut ris. and set. col., 4:00

12:16 == 0:16 a. m. of Nov. 1, the time of setting.

Fomalhart dec., 30° s. 90°-30°, = 60°-40°, = 20°. Altitude of Fomaliaut in latitude 40° at its meridian passage. To measure celestial distances ridian passage. To measure celestial distances with the eye keep in mind that one-third of the distance from the senith to the horizon is 30°. For smaller measurements use the "pointers" in the "big dipper," which are nearly 5° apart—a convenient celestial yardstick because always to be seen. In the case of a star whose dee. is such as to bring it nearer to the senith than to a horizon at meridian passage. It will be more convenient to use its zenith distance as a means of locating it. The difference between the latitude and dec. is this zenith distance. If the dec. is greater than the latitude then such difference is to be counted northward, otherwise southward from the zenith.

THE SIGNS AND CONSTELLATIONS OF THE ZODIAC.

Until recently it was taken for granted that the Onth recently it was taken for granted that the present relationship between signs and constellations of the zodiac was generally understood, as all astronomical textbooks mention their disagreement and explain the cause. The numerous letters of inquiry concerning differences between this data of inquiry concerning differences between this data in this almanac and certain others show the necessity for this note of explanation.

Thousands of years ago when the zodiac, that belt of the heavens about 16° in width within which move the moon and planets, was formed and divided into twelve parts or seasons called signs, each containing certain star groups called constellations, each was given the name of an object or animal which never did bear any relationship to the configuration of the stars in that group or division, but which did or is supposed to have reference to certain astronomical or other facts. Thus Libra, —, the scales or balance, comes at the autumnal equinox when there is an equilibrium or balance between the length of day and night the world over. Aquarius. —, the water-bearer, the world over. Aquarius, =, the water-bearer, and whose sign is the Egyptian sign for running water, comes at the season of greatest rains in Egypt, and so on.

Since the time when these divisions were made and named, owing to the precession of the equinoxes, resulting from the differing polar and equatorial diameters of the earth, the signs have moved back west nearly a whole division or constellation and where T was the first, X now is. Hence, though the sun now enters the sign T March 20, it is a month later when he enters the constellation T. It must be apparent, therefore, that any supposed influence or relationship which early astrologers attributed to the position of the sun, moon or planets when in certain of these divisions can no longer exist, as the sign now only represents that space or division of the zodiac where the controlling constellation was 2,000 or only represents that space or division of the zodiac where the controlling conscillation was 2.000 or more years ago, but is not now. Nevertheless some almancs still give the signs for the moon's place, which is very misleading to those who attempt to follow her in her course among the stars. Hence, this almanac gives the constellation and discards the ancient picture of the disemboweled man as relies of the age of superstition. The sign is retained for sun's place in connection with the seasons and sun's path through the zodiac each month because of its relationship to the equinoxes and solities. and solstices.

Correction for

ECLIPSES IN 1911.

There will be two eclipses this year and both of the sun, as must always be the case where but two occur. They are as follows:

I. Total April 28, partially visible in the United States as a small eclipse upon the sun's southern limb. The total phase will only be visible in the southern Pacific ocean and islands. The sun will set more or less eclipsed throughout Central America, southern Mexico and in eastern United States east of a line from near Pittsburg, Pa., to near Matagorda bay, Texas. Washington, D. C., is on the northern Atlantic boundary of the area of visibility. No part of the eclipse will be visible north of a line from Portland, Ore., through Milwaukee and Pittsburg to Washington, D. C. Therefore the eclipse will be very small in the western and middle states, west of the above mentioned line from Pittsburg to Mstagorda bay, being largest in the extreme southwest. More particularly visible as follows:

The figure shows 1, 2, 3 and 4 digits eclipsed on the southern limb of the sun.

TIME AND STANDARDS OF TIME.

Various kinds of time are in use in this coun-various ainte various various and various ainte various ainte various various

"mean" time are in general use there as in this country.

2. Mean Local Time—This is the kind that was in almost universal use prior to the introduction of standard time. This time is based upon the time when the mean sun's crosses the meridian and the day begins at midnight. When divided into civil divisions—years, months, weeks, days, etc.—it is sometimes called civil time.

3. Standard Time—For the convenience of the railroads and business in general a standard of time was established by mutual agreement in 1883 and by this calculation trains are now run and local time is regulated. By this system the United States, extending from 65° to 125° west longitude, is divided into four time sections, each of 15° of longitude, exactly equivalent to one hour (7½° or 30m. on each side of a meridian), commencing with the 75th meridian. The first or eastern section includes all territory between the Atlantic coast and an irregular line drawn from Buffalo to Charleston, S. C., the latter city being its southernmost point. The second or central section includes all the territory between this eastern line and another irregular line extending from Bismarck, N. D., to the mouth of the Rio Grande. The third or mountain section includes all the territory between the last-named line and nearly the western borders of Idaho, Nevada and Arizona. The fourth or Pacific section includes all the territory of the United States between the boundary of the mountain section and the Pacific coast. Inside of each of these sections standard time is uniform and the time of each section differs from that next to it by exactly one hour, as shown on the map. "Owing to the eccentricity of the earth's orbit and the inclination of the equator to the ecliptic, the apparent motion of the sun is retarded or accelerated according to the earth's place in its orbit. Hence, to take the actual sun as a guide would necessitate years, days and their subdivisions of unequal length. Therefore an imaginary or "mean sun" was invented. The difference between apparent and mean time is called the "equation of time" and may amount to a quarter of an hour in twenty-four hours. It is the difference between the figures in "Sun at noon mark" column in calendar and twelve hours. The figures on a correct sun dial give the apparent time.

STANDARDS OF TIME.

The following is the table of times, based upon the meridians used by the United States and

NAME OF TIME.	Degrees.	Central meridian from Greenwich.	Nearest place.;
Intercolonial or Atlantic. Eastern. Central. Mountain. Pacific. Sitka. Tahiti. Hawaiian.	75 90 105 120 135 150	5 hours west 6 hours west 7 hours west 8 hours west 9 hours west	About 31/4 degrees east of Halifax, N.8 Between New York and Philadelphia St. Louis and New Orleans. Denver, Col. 11/4 degrees east of Sacramento, Cal. 1/4 degree east of Sitka, Alaska. 1/4 degree weat of the island of Tahiti. Near center of Molokai.

It is obvious that to express the time of rising and setting of the sun and moon in standard time would limit the usefulness of such data to the single point or place for which it was computed, while in mean time it is practically correct for places as widely separated as the width of the

The president further recommended that the interstate-commerce law be so amended as to authorize the commission to act on its own initiative as well as upon the complaint of an individual in investigating the fairness of any existing rate or practice and also to give it the power to pass upon the classification of commodities for the purpose of fixing rates. It should also be empowered, whenever any proposed increase of rates is filed, whenever any proposed increase of rates is filed, at oi-ce to enter upon an investigation into the reasonableness of such change, and, if necessary, to postpone the effective date of such increase for a period not exceeding thirty days; if the increase is found to be unreasonable, the commission may then forbid it or fix the maximum beyond which it shall not be made.

Legislation to prevent the overissue of stocks and bonds by Interstate carriers and the further acquisition by railroad companies of the stock of competing lines was recommended. The president raiso suggested the passage of laws for additional safety appliances on freight trains and to facilitate the bringing of suits by employes against interstate-commerce employers.

In order to secure the compilance of the trusts and business combinations with the antitrust statute and to offer them a means of changing the character, organization and extent of their business so as to bring it within the lines of the law, under federal control and supervision, without creating great financial disturbance, the president recommended the enactment by congress of a general law for the formation of corporations to engage in trade and commerce between the states. Such law, he suggested, should be drawn so as to protect the corporations from undue interference by the states and regulate their activities in such manner as to prevent the recurrence, under national auspices, of those abuses which had arisen under state control.

OONTEST OVER HOUSE RULES.
Wednesday, March 16, 1910, Representative Crumpacker of Indiana called up in the house a John resolution enlarging the scope of inquiry of the schedules relating to the thirteenth decennial census so as to secure information respecting the nationality and mother tougue of all persons born in foreign countries or of foreign perentage. Objection to the consideration of the resolution was made on the ground that it was not in order on calendar Wednesday, when no other business than the call of the committees could be considered. Mr. Crumpacker maintained that the resolution was privilegad under the constitution and that therefore it was in order on any day. In this position he was sustained by Speaker Cannon, who, however, was overruled by the house by a vote of 163 to 111.

Or the following day, March 17, Mr. Crumpacker again called the resolution up for consideration and the same point of order was made against it. The speaker instead of ruling submitted to the house the question: Is the joint resolution called up by the gentleman from Indiana in orier as a question of privilege, the rule prescribing the order of rusiness to the contrary notwithstanding? On this a demand for the previous question was made, but the house by a vote of yeas 137 and nays 142 refured to order it. various aims with the control of the day and is used mainly by astronomical observatories and in official astronomical poservatories and in official astronomical publications. It is the legal time of the Dominion of Canada, though "standard" and "mean" time are in general use there as in this country.

2. Mean Local Time—This is the kind that was in almost universal use prior to the introduction of standard time. This time is based upon the time when the mean sun* crosses the meridian and the day begins at midnight. When divided into civil divisions—years, months, weeks, days, etc.—It is sometimes called civil time.

railroads and business in general a standard of time was established by mutual agreement in 1883 and by this calculation trains are now run and local time is regulated. By this system the United States, extending from 65° to 125° west longitude, is divided into four time sections, each of 15° of longitude, exactly equivalent to one hour (7½° or 30m. on each side of a meridian), commencing with the 75th meridian. The first or eastern section includes all territory between the Atlantic coast and an irregular line drawn from Buffalo to Charleston, S. C., the latter city being its southernmost point. The second or central section includes all the territory between this eastern line and another irregular line extending from Bismarck, N. D., to the mouth of the Rio Grande. The third or mountain section includes all the territory between the latenamed line and nearly the western borders of Idaho, Nevada and Arizona. The fourth or Pacific section includes all the territory of the United States between the boundary of the mountain section and the Pacific coast. Inside of each of these sections standard time is uniform and the time of each section differs from that next to it by exactly one hour, as shown on the map.

"Owing to the eccentricity of the earth's orbit and the inclination of the equator to the ecliptic, the apparent motion of the sun is retarded or accelerated according to the earth's place in its orbit. Hence to take the actual sun as a guide would necessitate years, days and their subdivisions of unequal length. Therefore an imaginary or "mean sun" was invented. The difference between apparent and mean time is called the "equation of time" and may amount to a quarter of an hour in twenty-four hours. It is the difference between the figures in "Sun at noon mark" column in calendar and twelve hours. The figures on a correct sun dial give the apparent time. parent time.

STANDARDS OF TIME.

The following is the table of times, based upon the meridians used by the United States and Canada:

NAME OF TIME.	Degrees.	Central meridian from Greenwich.	Nearest place.;
Intercolonial or Atlantic	60 75 90 105 120	5 hours west	About 3% degrees east of Halifax, N.S Between New York and Philadelphia St. Louis and New Orleans. Denver. Col.
Pacific. Sitka. Tahiti. Hawaiian	135	8 hours west 9 hours west 10 hours west	114 degrees east of Sacramento, Cal. 4 degree east of Sitka, Alaska. 5 degree west of the island of Tahiti. Near center of Molokai.

It is obvious that to express the time of rising and setting of the sun and moon in standard time would limit the usefulness of such data to the single point or place for which it was computed, while in mean time it is practically correct for places as widely separated as the width of the

Wednesday, March 16, 1910, Representative Crumpacker of Indiana called up in the house a John resolution enlarging the scope of inquiry of the schedules relating to the thirteenth decennial census so as to secure information respecting the nationality and mother tongue of all persons born in foreign countries or of foreign perentage. Objection to the consideration of the resolution was made on the ground that it was not in order on calendar Wednesday, when no other business than the call of the committees could be considered. Mr. Crumpacker maintained that the resolution was privileged under the constitution and that therefore it was in order on any day. In this position he was sustained by Speaker Cannon, who, however, was overruled by the house by a vote of 163 to 111.

Or the following day, March 17, Mr. Crumpacker again called the resolution up for consideration and the same point of order was made against 11. The speaker instead of ruling submitted to the house the question: Is the joint resolution called up by the gentleman from Indiana in order as a question of privilege, the rule prescribing the order of cusiness to the contrary notwithstanding? On this a demand for the previous question was made, but the bouse by a vote of yeas 137 and nays 142 refused to order it. The house then by a vote of 202 yeas to 72 nays declared that the resolution was in order and it was passed.

On the same day Representative George W. Norris of Nebraska presented a resolution, "privileged by the constitution," to amend the rules of the house so as to make the committee on rules consist of fifteen members, nine to be chosen by the majority party and six by the minority party, and excluding the speaker from membership on the committee. Thiz proposition, which was supported by the so-called "insurgent" republicans and the democrats, caused a heated controversy, lasting from Thursday until Saturday atternoon. It was maintained by the advocates of the resolution that under the oil system the speaker, through a committee on rules appointed and dominated by himself, exercised "inordinate and tyrannical power" in shaping or preventing legislation, and that the real question at issue was whether that power should be limited or contirued. It was further argued that a committee on rules elected in the manner proposed would be more truly representative of all the congressional districts and more amenable to the will of the majority. The "regular" republicans, on the other hand, insisted that he old rules had been evolved in the course of time, because they had been found necessary in order to transact business in the house; that they were not and could not be enforced except by the order to transact business in the house; that they were not and could not be enforced except by the will of the majority; that they had been adopted and used by democratic as well as republican congresses, and that they had been fairly and impartially enforced by Speaker Cannon.

The point of order having been made that the resolution was not a privileged one under the constitution, the speaker, basing his decision upon a ruling made by Samuel J. Randall in 1878, sustained the point of order. Mr. Norris appealed from the decision and moved the previous question. After a motion to lay the appeal on the table had been voted down (yeas 164, nays 182) the previous question was ordered by a vote of yeas 182, nays 181, and the house refused to concur in the decision of the speaker by a vote of 160 yeas to 182 nays. The question than recurring to the adoption of the resolution, Mr. Norris offered the following substitute: stitute:

"Resolved. That the rules of the house of representatives be amended as follows:

sentatives be amended as follows:

"1. In rule X, paragraph 1, strike out the words on rules to consist of five members."

"2. Add new paragraph to rule X, as follows:

"Paragraph 5. There shall be a committee on rules, elected by the house, consisting of ten members, six of whom shall be members of the majority party and four of whom shall be members of the minority party. The speaker shall not be a member of the committee and the conmittee shall elect its own chairman from its own members."

"Resolved, further, That within ten days after the adoption of this resolution there shall be an election of this committee, and immediately upon its election the present committee on rules shall be dissolved."

The resolution as amended by the substitute

The resolution as amended by the substitute was adopted, yeas 190, nays 157. The following republicans voted for the resolution, the remainder of the affirmative vote consisting of democrats:

Ames (Mass.) Barnard (Iowa). Cary (Wis.). Cooper (Wis.). Davidson (Wis.). Dawson (Iowa). Davis (Minn.). Fish (N. Y.). Foelker (N. Y.). Fowler (N. J.). Gardner (Mass.), Good (Iowa), Goona (N. D.). Nelson (Wis.).
Norris (Neb.). Packett (Iowa).
Parsons (N. Y.).
Poindexter (Wash.). Plumley (Vt.). Steenerson (Minn.). Taylor (O.). Townsend (Mich.). Volstead (Minn.). Woods (Iowa).

After announcing the vote the speaker made a brief statement in which he said that there were two courses open for him to pursue—one was to resign and permit the new combination of democrats and insurgents to choose a speaker in harmony with its aims and purposes. The other was for that combination to declare a vacancy in the office of speaker and proceed to the election of a new speaker. The first course he declined to pursue, because it might endanger the final passage sue, because it might endanger the final passage of all legislation necessary to redeem republican pledges and because he was not conscious of having done any political wrong.

"There has been much talk on the part of the minority and the insurgents," said Mr. Cannon in conclusion, "of the 'czarism' of the speaker, culminating in the action taken to-day. The real truth is that there is no coherent republican majority in the house of representatives. Therefore, the real majority ought to have the courage of its the real majority ought to have the courage of its convictions and logically meet the situation that of the wishes of the people in statutes and in laws.

"The speaker does now believe, and has always believed, that this is a government through parties, and that parties can act only through majorities. The speaker has always believed in and bowed to the will of the majority in convention, in caucus and in the legislative hall, and to-day profoundly believes that to act otherwise is to disorganize parties, is to prevent coherent action in any legislative body, is to make impossible the reflection of the wishes of the people in statutes and in laws. laws.

"The speaker has always said that, under the constitution, it is a question of the highest privilege for an actual majority of the house at any time to choose a new speaker, and again notifies the house that the speaker will at this moment or at any other time while he remains speaker entertain, in conformity with the highest constitutional privilege, a motion by any member to vacate the office of the speakership and choose a new speaker; and, under existing conditions, would welcome such action upon the part of the actual majority of the house, so that power and responsibility may rest with the democratic and insurgent members, who, by the last vote, evidently constitute a majority of this house. The chair is now ready to entertain such motion."

Mr. Burleson (dem.) of Texas offered a resolution that the office of speaker of the house of representatives be declared vacant and that the house proceed at once to the election of a new speaker. The motion was voted down, nays 192, yeas 155. Of those voting yea the following were republicans: Cary (Wis.), Cooper (Wis.), Davis (Minn.), Gronna (N. D.), Lenroot (Wis.), Lindbergh (Minn.), Murdock (Kas.), Nelson (Wis.), Poindexter (Wash.).

Acting under the Norris resolution a caucus of the republican members of the house was held March 23, and the following were committee on rules: Walter I. Smith, Iowa.

March 23, and the following were chosen to represent the majority on the new committee on rules: Walter I. Smith, Iowa. John Dalzell, Pennsylvania. Sylvester C. Smith, California. George P. FIRE IN BRUSSELS EXPOSITION.

Through a fire which started in the Belgian section of the Brussels international exposition Sunday evening. Aug. 14, 1910, damage estimated at between $6.000,000 and $10,000,000 was caused. The between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000 was caused. The principal losses were sustained in the British and Belgian sections, but the goods in other sections were also damaged by smoke and water. The grounds were crowded with people at the time, and a panic ensued, in which two lives were lost and many persons injured. A large number of valuable works of art were destroyed and the archives of the exposition were burned. The fire originated from crossed electric wires leading into the post-office in the Belgian building.

THE HIGH COST OF LIVING.

THE HIGH COM

The steady advance in the cost of many of the necessaries of life led to much discussion in 1910 as to the cause or causes. Dissatisfaction on the part of the consuming public was expressed in a meat boycott and in various other ways. Responding to the general demand for congressional action of some kind, the United States senate in February appointed a select committee with instructions to make an exhaustive investigation into the cost of living and any increase in the same since 1900. This committee was composed of the following senators: Heury Cabot Lodge, Massachusetts, chairman; Jacob H. Gallinger, New Hampshire; Porter J. McCumber, North Dakota; Reed Smoot, Utah: Ose I. Crawford. South Dakota; Reed Smoot, Utah: Ose I. Crawford. South Dakota; Alabama; Ellison D. Smith, South Carolina. The last three are democrats and the others republicans. The committee heard a large number of witnesses engaged in the wholesale and retail grocery trade, the wholesale and retail meat trade, the raising of cattle and sheep and the production of grain, cotton and wool. It also heard representatives of many other industries and examined numerous consular and other reports.

The committee, which was officially known as many other industries and examined numerous consular and other reports.

The committee, which was officially known as the "select committee on wages and prices of commodities," presented majority and minority reports to the senate June 23. The members divided on political lines, the majority report being signed by the republican senators and the minority by the democratic senators. Following is a brief synopsis of the meaburity report:

WHOLESALE PRICES.

WHOLESALE PRICES.

The advance in prices has been world-wide, although farm and food products have advanced much more rapidly than manufactured articles. Prices appear to have advanced more rapidly in the United States and Canada than in the united kingdom, France. Germany, Austria, Italy and Bulgaria. While the prices of manufactured articles have in many instances remained unchanged, the quality or grade has deteriorated. The price of furniture, for instance, has remained about the same, but the quality of cheap and medium-priced furniture has declined. The report quotes from the bulletin of the United States bureau of labor on wholesale prices, a summary of which is given in this issue of The Daily News Almanac and Year-Book, and then proceeds:
"Among the many causes contributing to the ad-

"Increased cost of production of farm products by reason of higher land values and higher wages.

"Increased demand for farm products and food. "Shifting of population from food-producing to food-consuming occupations and localities.
"Immigration to food-consuming localities.
"Reduced fertility of land resulting in lower average production or increased expenditures for fertilization.
"Increased hanking facilities in conjuntation.

"Increased banking facilities in agricultural lo-calities, which enable farmers to hold their crops and market to the best advantage. This results in steadying prices, but also tends to advance prices. "Reduced supply convenient to transportation of such commodities as timber.

"The assumption seems fair that for the products of the forest and of the farm the available supply is not keeping pace with the demand, while for manufactured articles the supply has practically kept pace with the demand. So far as the products of the forests are concerned, the supply in the United States is diminishing and the cost of production and marketing has increased. The farm products are being produced on the progressive presents. products are being produced on much more expensive land and farm wages have increased more rapidly than have those of any other group of workers."

RETAIL PRICES.

RETAIL PRICES.

"Retail prices in the United States in the spring of 1910 were for many articles at the highest point reached in many years. As compared with the spring of 1900 prices for bacon were more than 70 per cent higher, ham was 33 per cent higher, flour was about 50 per cent higher, butter about 45 per cent higher and eggs 100 per cent higher. "Furniture was about the same as in 1900. Earthenware was slightly lower. Shoes and clothing were considerably higher.

WAGES AND HOURS OF LABOR.

WAGES AND HOURS OF LABOR.

"Wages have not advanced as rapidly as have prices and practically all the labor difficulties which have been the subject of mediation in the United States during the last two or three years have had as their basis the advanced cost of living. In the United States wages have advanced much more rapidly than they have in European countries. Wages in the United States advanced in about the same degree as did prices until 1907. Owing to the industrial depression of 1908, following the financial ponic of 1907, wages dropped considerably, and in 1909 hardly more than regained the high point teached in 1907. Wages at the present time are not on as high a level as are food prices. Salaries have advanced but very little during the last ten years.
"Hours of labor in practically all wage occupations have been reduced. The United States bureau of labor compilation of wages and hours of labor has not been continued later than 1907. In 1907 wages per hour were 22.1 per cent above 1900.

THE TARIFF.

"The tariff seems to have been no material factor in causing the advance in prices during the last decade. The greatest advances have been made in commodities upon which the tariff has little or on effect, and the absolute removal of the tariff on many of these commodities could not have afforded relief at the present time, for the reason that prices of these commodities, with a few exertions, were as high or higher in other countries ceptions, were as high or higher in other countries than in the United States.

"The advance in prices during the last ten years

"The advance in prices during the last ten years appears to have no relation to tariff legislation. Beginning with January, 1900, wholesale prices in general declined slightly, and the decline continued through July, 1901. Beginning with August, 1901, prices advanced very slowly through March, 1903, and then remained steady through May, 1905. Beginning with June, 1905, there was a marked increase through October, 1907. Beginning with November, 1907, prices began to decline and the decline continued through August, 1908. Beginning with September, 1908, prices steadily advanced until the highest point during the ten years was reached in March, 1910.

"The groups of articles which have shown the such changes as have been made in the tariff in such changes as have been made in the tariff in these schedules have apparently had no effect on prices, as almost without a single exception the prices have advanced materially since the passage of the act without any distinction as to whether the tariff was increased or decreased.

"The fact that exports of products of the farm and of the forests continue in such large quantities indicates that the price movement is due not to the tariff but to a world-wide movement unward ties indicates that the price movement is due not to the tariff but to a world-wide movement upward in the prices of such commodities.

"Lumber has steadily advanced since 1900, and the price in 1909 was 41.8 per cent above the price of 1960, yet with this advance other countries have been demanding our lumber in increasing quantities.

tities.

"Material decreases were made by the tariff of 1909 on articles grouped under schedule D. 'wood and manufactures of,' but they seem to have had no appreciable effect upon lumber prices, as they have continued upward, even though lumber is imported in large quantities."

COMBINATIONS AND ASSOCIATIONS.

"Under this subject are grouped industrial com-binations, popularly referred to as trusts, trade agreements, producers' associations, wholesale dealers' associations and retail dealers' associations. The prices of many of the trust-produced commodities have not advanced as rapidly as have other commodities. In some cases where trust-produced commodities have advanced greatly the advance appears to be due largely to other causes, such as short supplies appears to be due largely to other causes, such as short supplies.

"While industrial combinations may result in economies of production and distribution the fact that competition is either wholly or partly removed leads to abuses. In some cases where no actual combination of producing establishments under one head has been made, trade agreements do exist which operate to fix prices in restraint of trade fully as much as an actual trust. The effect of all such organizations as the Elgin board of trade is to advance prices."

The western meat packers were not examined by the committees for the reason that they were under investigation at the time by grand juries.

THE GOLD SUPPLY.

"The proposition that the increase in the gold supply has affected prices rests of course on the sound economic theory that a marked increase in the monctary standard of value cheapens the standard, and by cheapening it increases the amount which must be paid for a commodity. It is because the general trend of world prices has seemingly responded to the contraction or expansion of the world's supply of currency that the conclusion is reached that the present abnormal production of gold is a positive factor in forcing up the level of the world's prices and in preventing their decline. It is not contended that this increase is the dominant or even a principal cause of the rise of prices, but it undoubtedly has exerted a positive effect by cheapening the standard of price and at the same time conomously increasing the amount of credit based upon gold."

THE LABOR UNIONS.

"Labor unions have not been apparently a serious factor in contributing toward advancing prices. ous factor in contributing toward advancing prices. Of course, the general tendency of labor unions is to increase wages and reduce hours, and in this way they may have indirectly affected prices by securing for the wage earners higher pay and shorter hours and thus raising the standard of living and placing them in a position to secure better homes and better home surroundings, articles of necessity of a higher grade and in greater quantities, and more articles usually classed as increasingly large number of persons from agriculture into industrial employment, thus increasing the cost of food production on the farm.

COST OF DISTRIBUTION.

"The expenses of distributing food products by wholesalers and retailers have increased by reason of the increase in rents, taxes, wages and cost of horses and horse feed." Putting up articles in fancy packages, the use of trading stamps and the giving of prizes have also contributed to advance

COLD STORAGE.

"Cold storage plants have tended to level prices, although they have enabled the dealers to take the best possible advantage of conditions both in purchasing when prices are low and selling when prices are high. Eggs have shown a greater advance since 1900 than has any other article of food. This probably is due largely to supply and demand, but also in part to the fact that the cold storage has artificially forced up the price. The committee has recommended to congress a bill limiting the time food products may be kept in cold storage."

SANITARY REGILLATIONS

SANITARY REGULATIONS.

"Many regulations looking toward improving the quality of food and protecting the health of consumers have been passed by United States, state and local authorities during the last ten years. These regulations have been beneficial, but the effect of all of them is to advance prices to a greater or less degree." Examples of such laws are the pure-food and meat and dairy inspection

OVERCAPITALIZATION.

"Overcapitalization of transportation and industrial companies has the effect of advancing prices. Increase of capital usually results in a greater amount of dividends. Increased dividends must mean increased earnings and the increased earnings come from the consumer."

IMMIGRATION.

"The number of immigrants arriving in the United States from 1900 to the present time was $.202.288. More than 80 per cent of the total were at the most productive period of life, but only a very small percentage of this enormous number of people have entered agricultural pursuits. Practically all have entered industrial pursuits and by reason of becoming consumers instead of producers of food have contributed in no small way toward advancing the prices of food products."

HIGHER STANDARD OF LIVING.

"The standard of living has steadily advanced and consumers are demanding a much higher grade of article than ten years ago. This advance in the standard of living has been a material factor in increasing prices. In clothing and shoes the effort to kcep up with the changing styles adds materially to expenditures."

FREIGHT RATES ON COMMODITIES OF LIFE.

Tables furnished by the interstate commerce commission are given to show that there has been a substantial increase in the freight rates from St. Louis, Chicago, St. Paul and Duluth to New York and from New York to western points.

MINORITY REPORT

The minority report, signed by Senators Johnston, Clarke and Smith, after reviewing and criticising the findings of the majority members of the committee, concludes as follows:

"We find the three substantial causes for the advance in prices are:

"(1) The tariff.

"(1) The tariff.
"(2) Trusts, combines and monopolies.
"(3) Increased money supply.
"We are without sufficient data to apportion the degree of responsibility among these three causes, but that the first two are the chief malefactors we have no doubt, and they are of our own creation."

Some of the points made by the minority members are these bers are these:

The high price of land is not a cause, but the effect of the high price of farm products.

There has been an increased demand for farm products, but the supply has also increased.

The migration of men to food-consuming localities should be attributed to the rapidly increasing demand for men in the city shops and to better social, school and church privileges in the cities. As to the increased cost of distribution, "our investigations do not show that there has been any notable increase in railroad freights since 1900."

vestigations do not show that there has been any notable increase in railroad freights since 1900."

"We do not dissent from the conclusions of the majority on this subject (overcapitalization) if the public are permitted to be taxed to pay dividends on watered stocks."

"Perhaps less than 3 per cent of our people include in the use of luxuries to any appreciable extent. This small number could raise the general level of prices but little more than a man could raise himself by his boot straps. The great advances have been mainly in bacon, beef, mutton and cotton goods, and they have increased vastly more than in tea, silk goods, champagne, silverwere, diamonds and jewelry."

"It is difficult to understand how any one can favor high rates of duty if he does not honestly believe that it will increase the prices to be realized by the manufacturers producing the article affected, by diminishing or destroying competition and thus necessarily increasing the cost to the consumer."

consumer."
"The cost of production is necessarily enhanced by the fact that the producer must, under this tariff scheme, pay higher prices for his clothing, household goods, implements, machinery and other highly protected articles of necessity."
If the purpose of the Payne-Aldrich bill was not to increase the profit to the manufacturer and not to increase the profit to the manufacturer and cost to the consumer, we are unable to comprehend why the tariff on certain sawed lumber should have been increased 50 per cent, on shingles 66 per cent, corrugated iron and steel 115 per cent, iron and steel wire (of a certain size) coated with zinc or tin 533 per cent, rasors 67 per cent, buckwheat flour 25 per cent, biscults 125 per cent, atockings from 20 to 30 per cent and on certain cheap cotton cloth 460 per cent."

MEAT BOYCOTT OF 1910.

MEAT BOYCOTT OF 1910.

In Cleveland, O., Jan. 16, 1910, some 460 superintendents and foremen employed by manufacturing concerns signed a pledge to abstain from meat for thirty days, or for sixty days if prices should not fall within a month. Many others joined in the movement and in a short time 25,000 persons had signed the pledge. As this meant that at least 100,000 residents of Cleveland had ceased eating meat the effect on the butchering industry was immediate. Several of the companies concerned discharged many of their employes, as they had no work for them. The price of meat went down a little, but as the cost of other commodities decreased to some extent at the same time the fall may not have been due entirely to the boycott. This spread to other cities, including Pittsburg, Baltimore, New Orleans, New York, Chicago, Milwaukce and Boston. The Anti-Food Trust league, formed in Washington some time before the boycott began, received a large number of applications for membership and by the end of January had more than 200,000 on its list. The movement came to its cilmax soon after and then collapsed, without having had any permanent effect on meat prices.

WHOLESALE PRICES, 1909-10.

WHOLESALE PRICES, 1909-10.

[From bulletin No. 87 of the bureau of labor, Washington, D. C.]

Wholesale prices in 1909, as measured by the prices of 257 commodities included in the investigation, advanced 3 per cent over the wholesale prices in 1908, but with this advance they were still 2.3 per cent below the high average of 1907 prices. Wholesale prices in 1908 were 14.5 per cent higher than in 1890; 41 per cent higher than in 1897, 41 per cent higher than in 1897, 41 per cent higher than in 1890 to 1809; 12 per cent higher than in 1890 and 26.5 per cent higher than the average price for the ten years, 1890 to 1899.

The highest point reached in 1907 was in the month of Cctober, from which month there was a general decline until August, 1908. Beginning with September, 1908, there has been an increase without a break in any month up to March, 1910. Wholesale prices in March, 1910, were higher than at any time in the preceding twenty years, being 7.5 per cent higher than in August, 1908; 21.1 per cent higher than in August, 1908; 21.1 per cent higher than in August, 1908; 21.1 per cent higher than in August, 1905; 21.1 per cent higher than the average yearly price of 1900; 49.2 per cent higher than the average yearly price of 1900; 49.2 per cent higher than the average yearly price of 1907, and 23.8 per cent higher than the average price for the ten years, 1890 to 1899.

Comparing 1909 with 1908, the group of commodities showing the greatest increase in price was: Farm products, 15 per cent; The other groups showing an increase were: Food, etc., 3.4 per cent; cloths and clothing, 2.3 per cent; Inuber and building materials, 4 per cent; drugs and chemicals, 1.8 per cent; miscellaneous, 5 per cent. Groups showing a decrause were: Fuel and lighting, 1.1 per cent miscal sand implements, 5 per cent, Housefurnishing goods, 2 per cent.

The following table shows the average wholesale prices of certain commodities in the calendar year. 1909 and the month of March, 1910. The quotations are from New York, Chicago and a f

Mills Bill-Presented to 50th congress during Cleveland's first administration; provided for free lumber and wool, reduction on pig iron and abolition of specific duties on cotton; passed by house July 21, 1888, by vote of 162 to 149, but failed in senate; house democratic, senate republican. McKinley Bill-Passed by 51st congress during Benjamin Harrison's administration; became law Cot 8, 1809, bigh protective measure, though re-

Oct. 6, 1890; high protective measure, though remitting duties on sugar and providing for reciprocity treaties; both houses of congress republican.

Wilson Bill—Passed by 53d congress during Cleveland's second administration; became law Aug. 17, 1894, without the president's signature; both houses democratic; measure reduced duties in some cases and made additions to free list, notably wool.

notably wool. Dingley Bill—Passed by 54th congress during Mc-Kinley's administration: approved July 24, 1897; passed by house 205 yeas to 122 nays, 27 members not voting; passed by senate 38 yeas to 28 nays, 23 not voting; house contained 206 republicans and 134 democrats and senate 46 republicans and democrats; measure raised rates to produce more reasone but was similar in many respects to the revenue, but was similar in many respects to the revenue, but was similar in many respects to the McKinley act.

Payne-Aldrich bill passed at extra session of 61st congress in first year of President William H.
Taft's administration; approved Aug. 5, 1909; passed the house by a vote of 217 to 161 and the senate by a vote of 45 to 34. The conference vote in the house was 195 yeas to 183 nays, twenty republicans voting in the negative and two demorats in the affirmative. In the senate the vote on the final conference report was 47 to 31, seven republicans voting sgainst it. In general the revision of the Dingley act was in the direction of lower duties, but there were some increases. The law is given practically in full in The Daily News Almanac and Year-Book for 1910.

THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION IN WASHINGTON.

The Smithsonian institution was established by statute in 1846, under the terms of the will of James Smithson, who bequeathed his fortune in 1826 to the United States for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge among men." From the income of the fund a bullding, known as the Smithsonian bullding, was erected in Washington, D. C. on land given by the United States. The institution is legally an establishment having as its members the president and vice-president of the United States, the chief justice and the president's cabluct. It is governed by a board of regents consisting of the vice-president, the chief justice, three members of the United States senate, three members of the house of representatives and six citi-The Smithsonian institution was established by bers of the house of representatives and six citizens appointed by joint resolution of congress. It is under the immediate direction of the secretary of the Smithsonian institution, who is the executive officer of the board and the director of the institution's activities. The institution aids investigators by making grants for research and exploration, providing for lectures, initiating scientific projects and publishing scientific papers. It has administrative charge of the national museum, the national gallery of art, the international exchange service the national zoological park, the astrophysical observatory and the regional bureau for the international catalogue of scientific literature. The institution's original endowment of $541,000 has been increased by gifts and accumulated increast 1987,000, yielding an annual income of $58,375. The secretary of the institution is Charles D. PLAN OF THE CANAL.

PLAN OF THE CANAL.

The entire length of the Panama canal from deep water in the Atlantic to deep water in the Pacific is 50.5 miles. Its length on land is 40.5 miles. In passing through the canal from the Atlantic to the Pacific, a vessel will enter a channel with a bottom width of 500 feet in Limon bay and follow this for about seven miles to Gatun, where it will enter a series of three locks in flight and be lifted eighty-five feet to the level of the Gatun lake. It will sail at full ocean speed through this lake, in a channel varying from 1,000 to 500 feet in width, for a distance of about twenty-four miles to Bas Obispo, where it will enter the Culebra cut. It will sail through the cut. a distance of about nine miles, in a channel with a bottom width of 300 feet, to Pedro Miguel. There it will enter a lock and be lowered $0\forall feet, to a small lake at an elevation of 54\forall feet above sea level, and will sail through this for about 1\forall fines to Miraflores. There it will enter two locks in series and be lowered to sea level, and will sail through this for about 1\forall fines to Miraflores. There it will enter two locks in series and be lowered to sea level, and will sail through this for about 1\forall fines to Miraflores. There it will enter two locks in series and be lowered to sea level, massing out into the Pacific through a channel $\forall fines in length, with a bottom width of 500 feet. The depth of the approach channel on the Atlantic side, where the tidal oscillation does not exceed 1\forall feet, will be 41 feet at mean tide, and on the Pacific side, where the maximum oscillation is 23 feet, the depth will be 45 feet at mean tide.

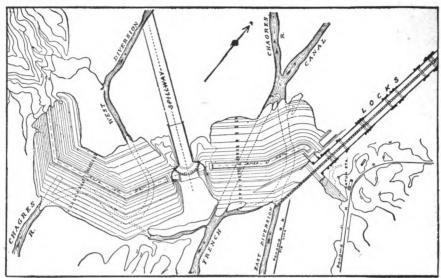

GATUN DAM.

GATUN DAM.

The Gatun dam, which will form Gatun lake by impounding the waters of the Chapres river and other streams, will be nearly 1½ miles long, measured on its crest, nearly half a mile wide at its base, about 400 feet wide at the water surface, about 100 feet wide at the top, and its crest, as planned, will be at an elevation of 115 feet above mean sea level, or 30 feet above the normal level of the lake. The interior of the dam will be formed of a natural mixture of sand and clay, dredged by hydraulic process from pits above and below the dam, and placed between two large masses of rock and miscellaneous material, obtained from steam-shovel excavation at various points along the canal. The top and up-stream slope will be riprapped. The spillway is a concrete lined onening, 1,200 feet long and 300 feet wide, cut through a hill of rock nearly in the center of the dam, all the waters discharged from the Chapres river and its tributaries will flow through this opening. When the lake is formed, the spillway will be closed with a concrete dam, fitted with gates and machinery for regulating the water level of the lake.

The water level of Gatun lake, extending through.

The water level of Gatun lake, extending through the Culebra cut, will be maintained at the south end by an earth dam connecting the locks at Pedro Miguel with the high ground to the westward, about 1.700 feet long, with its crest at an elevation of 105 feet above mean tide. A small lake between the locks at Pedro Miguel and Mirafores will be formed by dams connecting the walls of Mirafores locks with the high ground on either side. The dam to the westward will be of earth, about 2.700 feet long, having its crest about 15 feet shove the water in Mirafores lake. The east dam will be of concrete, about 500 feet long, and will form a spillway for Mirafores lake, with crest gates similar to those at the spillway of the Gatun dam.

GATUN LAKE.

Gatun lake will cover an area of 164 square miles, with a depth in the ship channel varying from 85 to 45 feet. Throughout the first 16 miles from Gatun the width of the channel will be 1.000 feet; then for 4 miles it will be 800 feet and for 4 miles more, 500 feet, when the entrance to Culebra cut, at Bas Obispo, will be reached. The watel level in the cut will be that of the lake and the bottom width of the channel will be 300 feet.

The canal zone contains about 448 square miles. It begins at a point three marine miles from mean low-water mark in each ocean and extends for five miles on each side of the center line of the route of the canal. It includes the group of islands in the Bay of Panama named Perlco, Naos, Culebra and Flamenco. The cities of Panama and Colon are excluded from the zone, but the United States has the right to enforce sanitary ordinances and maintain public order there in case the republic of Panama should not be able to do so of the 448 souare miles in the zone the United States owns 322 and private persons 126. The private property may, however, be acquired at any time by the United States by purchase or by the exercise of the right of eminent domain.

THE LOCKS.

THE LOCKS.

There will be twelve locks in the canal, all in duplicate; three pairs in flight at Gatun, with a combined lift of 85 feet; one pair at Pedro Mixuel, with a lift of 30½ feet, and two pairs at Miraflores, with a combined lift of 54% feet at mean tide. The dimensions of all are the same—a usable length of 1,000 feet and a usable width of 110 feet. Each lock will be a chamber, with walls and floors of concrete and water-tight gates at each end.

and floors of concrete and water-tight gates at each end.

The side walls will be 45 to 50 feet wide at the surface of floor; will be perpendicular on the face and will narrow from 'the point 24½ feet above the floor until they are 8 feet wide at the top. The middle wall will be 60 feet wide, approximately 81 feet high, and each face will be vertical. At a point 42½ feet above the surface of the floor and 15 feet above the top of the middle culvert, this wall will divide into two parts, leaving a space down the center much like the letter "U." which will be 19 feet wide at the bottom. In this center space, which will be 4 feet wide at the top, will be a tunnel divided into three stories or galleries. The lowest gallery will be for drainage; the middle for the wires that carry the electric current to operate the gate and valve machinery, which will be installed in the center wall, and the upper will be a nassageway for the operators. The lock chambers will be filled and emptied through lateral culverts in the floors connected with main culverts, 18 feet in diameter, in the walls, the water flowing in and out by gravity. gravity.

The lock gates will be steel structures, 7 feet thick, 65 feet long and from 47 to 82 feet high. They will weigh from 300 to 600 tons each. For the entire canal 92 leaves will be required, the total weighing 57,000 tons. Intermediate gates will be used in the locks to save water and time, if desired, in locking small vessels through, the gates being so fixed as to divide the locks into chambers 600 and 400 feet long, respectively. Of the vessels mayigating iffe high seas, 95 per cent are less than 600 feet long. In the construction of the locks it is estimated that there will be used approximately 4,500,000 cubic yards of concrete.

No vessel will be permitted to enter or pass mately 4,500,000 cubic yards of concrete.

No vessel will be permitted to enter or pass through the locks under its own power. Electricity will be used to tow all vessels into and through the locks, and to operate all gates and valves, power being generated by water turbines from the head created by Gatun lake. The time required to pass a vessel through all the locks is estimated at three hours, one hour and a half in the three locks at Gatun and about the same time in the three locks on the Pacific side. The time of the passage of a vessel through the entire canal is estimated as ranging from ten to twelve hours, according to the size of the ship and the rate of speed at which it can travel.

The gold force is made up of the officials, clerical force, construction men and skilled artisans of the isthmian canal commission and the Panama railroad. Practically all are Americans. The silver force represents the unskilled laborers of the commission and the railroad. Of these about 5,000 are Europeans, mainly Spaniards, with a few 1talians and other races. The remainder—some 20.000—are West Indians, about 4,000 of whom are employed as artisans receiving 16, 20 and 25 cents, and a small number 32 and 40 cents, an hour. The standard rate of the West Indian laborer is 10 cents an hour, but a few doing special work are paid 16 and 20 cents. The larger part of the Spaniards are paid 20 cents an hour.

CANAL FORCE.

On March 23, 1910, the total force of the isthmian canal commission and Panama railroad company actually at work was 38,732, divided as follows:

$7,000.000 worth of business a year. It feeds, clothes and provides with necessities approximately 50,000 persons. The department is self-sustaining. It has thirteen general stores in as many canaloue villages and three camps on the relocated line of the railroad. No goods are sold for cash, only coupons issued to employes being accepted in payment for purchases.

PART OF CANAL COMPLETED.

In August 5½ miles of the canal at the Atlantic entrance were opened to navigation for the sand and rock feet of the Atlantic division. This section, added to the five miles at the Pacific entrance open to vessels of all kinds, made the total of the canal in use 10½ miles.

PANAMA RAILROAD.

PANAMA RAILEOAD.

The Panama railroad and the steamships run in connection with it between New York and Colon are owned and operated by the United States government. When the canal was purchased from the new French canal company the railroad and steamship property was included among the assets. It practically parallels the route of the canal nearly the whole distance. Since it was acquired by the Americans the line has been almost completely relocated to correspond with changes in the route and plan of the canal. It is 46½ miles long and runs between the cities of Colon and Panama.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

The "Monroe doctrine" was enunciated by President Monroe in his message to congress Dec. 2. 1823. Referring to steps taken to arrange the respective rights of Russia, Great Britain and the United States on the northwest coast of this continent, the president went on to say: "In the discussions to which this interest has given rise, and in the arrangements by which they may terminate, the occasion has been deemed proper for asserting, as a principle in which the rights and interests of the United States are involved, that the American continents, by the free rights and interests of the United States are involved, that the American continents, by the free and independent condition which they have assumed and maintain, are henceforth not to be considered as subjects for future colonization by any European power. * * We owe it, therefore, to candor and to the amigable relations existing between the United States and those powers to declare that we should consider any attempt on their part to extend their system to any portion of this hemisphere as dangerous to our peace and safety. With the existing colonies or dependencies of any European power we have not interfered and shall not interfere. But with the governments who have declared their independence and maintain it, and whose independence we have, on great consideration and on just principles, acknowledged, we could not view any interposition for the purpose of oppressing them or controlling in any other manner their destiny by any European power in any other light than as the manifestation of an unfriendly disposition toward the United States."

DEATH OF EDWARD VII. AND ACCESSION OF GEORGE V.

Edward VII., king of Great Britain and Ireland and emperor of India, died in Buckingham palace, London, at 11:45 p. m., Friday, May 6, 1910. The immediate cause of his death was heart fallure following an attack of bronchitis. He had for some years suffered from emphysems, with an attendant bronchial catarrh and with digestive disturbances, which undermined his naturally strong constitution. The political crisis in the kingdom brought on by the dispute between the house of commons and the house of lords over the budget also gave him much anxiety and propably affected his health to some degree. To obtain relief he went to Biarritz early in March, but while there went to Biarritz early in March, but while there had a severe bronchitic attack. Recovering from this he returned to London April 27 and resumed had a severe bronchitic attack. Recovering from this he returned to London April 27 and resumed his regular duties.

Saturday, April 30, he felt a little unwell and went to Sandringham. Sunday he attended church, but in the afternoon spent some time in the open six and coutracted a slight chill. Monday he returned to London, and though feeling out of sorts kept a dinner engagement. Tuesday and Wednesday he continued at work in spite of the admonitions of his medical advisers, receiving official visitors and giving audiences. He suffered from coughing and difficulty in breathing, especially at night. The physicians, Drs. Francis Henry Laking, James Reid and R. Douglas Powell, recognized the gravity of his condition and Queen Alexandra, who was on the continent, was sent for. She arrived on the afternoon of Thursday, and the fact that the king did not meet her at the railway station as usual was the first indication to the public that his illness was serious. Even on that day his majesty continued to transact public business, though he was confined to his consent issued the following bulletin:

"The king is suffering from an attack of brombitis and has been confined to his room for two room. Thursday evening the physicians with his consent issued the following bulletin:

"The king is suffering from an attack of bronchitis and has been confined to his room for two days. His majecty's condition causes some anxiety."

In the early hours of Friday morning, May 6, the king had several severe attacks of dyspnœa, and when the physicians visited him, they found that the gravity of the symptoms had increased. They issued a bulletin at 11 a. m., stating, "The king has passed a comparatively quiet night, but the symptoms have not improved and his majesty's condition gives rise to grave anxiety." The king rose in the morning and dressed, but spent mose of the time seated in his chair. At noon his condition grew worse and he had several fainting spells. He had retained full control of his senses until then, and in reply to some suggestion said: "No, d shall not give in; I shall go on; I shall work to the end." These were his last conscious words.

Oxygen was freely administered, but without avail. His periods of unconsciousness became more prolonged, and at 6 p. m. the physicians issued the following bulletin:

"The king's symptoms have become worse during the day and his majesty's condition is now critical."

Late in the evening he was put to bed, having been permitted to remain seated in his chair to ease his breathing. He did not regain consciousness, and at 11:45 p. m. the end came after a prolouged period of perfect calm. The news of the king's death was told to the world in the following bulletin, signed by the physicians already named and also by Dr. Bertrand Dawson:

"His majesty the king breathed his last at 11:45 to-night in the presence of her majesty Queen Alexandra, the prince and princess of Wules, the princess royal (duchess of Fife), the Princess Victoria and the Princess Louise (duchess of Argyll)." Late in the evening he was put to bed, having Victoria and the Frincess Louise (ducless of Argyll)."

Mourning for the king was heartfelt and general, not only throughout the great empire over which he had reigned for nearly a decade, but in all parts of the civilized world, where it was felt that in his death the cause of international peace had lost one of its most powerful and earnest advocates. Messages of sympathy and condelence were received by Owen Alexandra and the royal family from the rulers and presidents of all nations, including one from President Taft of the United States. The latter appointed Former President Rosevelt, then in Europe, to attend the funeral as the special representative of the United States.

Wednesday, May 18, the body of Kind Edward was removed with simple but impressive ceremoter from Buckingham palace to Westminster hall, where it lay in state. It was viewed by hundreds of thousands, who passed the coffin in an unbroken stream until the doors were finally closed. Friday, May 20, the body was taken to Paddington station and thence conveyed to Windsor, where the funeral services were conducted by the archibishop of Canterbury in St. George's chapel. Later the royal remains were entombed in the Albert Memorial chapel.

In the pro-cession from Westminster hall to the railway stacession from Westminster hall to the railway sta-tion the rulers of nine European nations, members of all the leading royal families, diplomats, mil-tary and naval 'eeders and many other distin-guished persons followed the gun carriage on which the coffin rested. The three miles of streets through which the cortege moved, between solid lines of red-coated solders, standing with riles reversed and the regimental colors dipped to the ground, were thronged with such a mass of silent, somberly clad people as had seldom if ever be-fore been seen in London.

ACCESSION OF GEORGE V.

ACCESSION OF GEORGE V.
George Frederick, prince of Wales, succeeded to the throne immediately upon the death of his father, Edward VII. He assumed the title of George V.
In accordance with an old custom his first official act was to send to the lord mayor of London a telegram announcing King Edward's death.
Saturday, May 7, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, George V. took the oath and was formally declared king of Great Britain and Ireland and emperor of India, the ceremony taking place in the throneroom of St. James' palace in the presence of the privy council, under the presidency of the earl of Crewe. Following custom, the members of the council were first formally notified of the death of King Edward VII. and of the accession of George V. A committee then informed his majesty of what had been done, whereupon he entered the council V. A committee then informed his majesty of what had been done, whereupon he entered the council chamber and made an address, in which he spoke of the death of his fathen and declared that to endeavor to follow in King Edward's footsteps and at the same time to uphold the constitutional government of the realm would be the carnest object of his life. The proclamation of his majesty's accession was signed by Prince Christian and all the other privy councilors present and by the lord mayor and the representatives of the city. His majesty took the usual oath for the security of the church of Scotland, and the councilors were all resworn. The king then received the councilors, who kissed hands on being presented, and the ceremony came to an end.

the ceremony came to an end.

Monday, May 9, the medieval ceremony of proclaiming the accession of the new king by hersils and pursuivants in the various centers of London and pursuivants in the various centers of London took place. The first proclamation was made in Friary court at St. James' palace at 9 o'clock in the morning and was witnessed from one of the windows by the new king and queen and also by their children. In the quadrangle of the court were a guard of honor of the 1st life guards, members of the army headquarters staff in full uniform and a large concourse of spectators. At the appointed time the officials of the College of Arms stepped through an open window on to the terrace on the western side of the court. The duke of Norfolk was earl marshal; Sir Alfred Scott-Gatty, garter king of arms; W. H. Weldon, norroy king of arms; W. A. Lindsay, Windsor herald, and H. F. Burke, Somerset herald. The four pursuivants, Rouge Dragon, Fortcullis, Rouge Croix and Blue Mantle, were E. Green, Joseph Watkin, A. Cochrane and G. W. Wollaston. As they took their places on the center of the balcony the two mace beavers and the royal trumpeters stood to the right and left. After the trumpeters had sounded a fanfare the earl marshal and the garter king of arms advanced and the latter read the proclamation:

"That the high and mighty prince, George Frederick Ernest Albert, is now, by the death of our late sovereign of heppy memory, become our only lawful and rightful liege lord George V., by the grace of God king of the united kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British dominions beyond the seas, defender of the faith, emperor of India, to whom we do acknowledge all faith and constant obedience, with all hearty and humble affection, beseeching God, by whom kings and queens do reign, to bless the royal l'rince George V. with long and happy years to reign over us. 'As Sir Aifred Scott-Gatty finished the reading he and the earl marshal raised their hats and the former called out loudly, 'God save the king!' A royal salute was fired, the royal standard was raised above Marlborough house and the band played the national anthem, the spectators joining in and singing the words. Similar ceremonies, though less elaborate, took place at Charing Cross, Temple Bar and the Royal exchange. The proclamation was read on the same day in various places throughout the whole empire.

DEATH OF BJORNSTJERNE BJORNSON.

Bjornstjerne Bjornson, the Norwegian novelist, poet, dramatist, orator and advocate of universal peace, died in Paris, France, April 26, 1910, after an illness extending over more than a year. He was brought to Paris in Novomber, 1909, to be treated for arterio-sclerosis, from which he was suffering, but failed to receive any permanent benefit. In February, 1910, he seemed to be at death's door, but railied and passed the crisis for the time being. His body was brought to Norway on the cruiser Norge and the funeral took place in Christiania May 3. Bjornson was 77 years old at the time of his death.

THE DRAGO DOCTRINE.

When in the winter of 1902-03 Germany, Britain and Italy blockaded the ports of Venezuela in attempt to make the latter country settle up its debts Dr. L. F. Drago, a noted jurist of Argentina, maintained that force cannot be used by one power to collect money owing to its citizens by another power. Prominence was given to the contention by the fact that it was officially upheld by Argentina and favored by other South American republics. The principle embodied has become generally known as the "Drago doctrine."

ARBITRATION OF FISHERIES DISPUTE.

The historic Atlantic fisheries controversy, which for 130 years had been a source of annoyance to the United States and Great Britain, was submitted to the international court of arbitration at The Hague, Junc 1, 1910, and the decision announced Sept. 7 following. The dispute arose chiefly over the interpretation of the treaty between the two countries in 1818, but its earliest origins dated back to conditions created by the treaty of 1783. The clause in the treaty of 1818, which caused the greater part of the touble, was as follows:

"That the inhabitants of the United States shall have forever, in common with the subjects of his Britannic majesty, the liberty to take fish of every kind on that part of the southern coast of Newfoundland extending from Cape Ray to the Ramea Islands, on the western and northern coast from Cape Ray to the Quirpon islands, on the The historic Atlantic fisheries controversy, which Ramea islands, on the western and northern coast from Cape Ray to the Quirpon islands, on the shores of the Magdalen islands and also on the coasts, bays, harbors and creeks from Mount Joli on the southern coast of Labrador to and through the straits of Belleisle, and thence northwardly indefinitely along the coast, without prejudice, however, to any of the exclusive rights of the Hudson's Bay company."

In return for these privileges the United States tenounced forever the right to fish within three marine miles of the coasts of British North Amermarine miles of the coasts of British North America not included within the above. The main source of trouble was the difference of opinion as to the right of Americans to obtain supplies of the balt fishes—herring, capelin and squid—in the coast waters of Newfoundland, where alone they are to he had. This right was denied by Newfoundland. Great Britain and Canada became involved in the dispute and it was finally decided in January, 1909, to submit the whole matter to the court of arbitration at The Hague, in accordance with the principles of the convention for the settlement of international disputes, signed by many of the powers Oct. 13, 1907. ers Oct. 13, 1907.

The cause was considered by the following arbitrators: Prof. H. Lammasch of Austria, president: Dr. Luis Drago of Argentina, Jhr. M. A. F. de Savornin Lohman of Holland, Sir Charles Fitzpatrick of Great Britain and Judge George Gray of the United States.

of the United States.

The counsel on behalf of the United States were chandler P. Anderson of New York, agent; Elihu Root, senator from New York; George Turner of Spokane, Wash.; Samuel J. Elder of Boston, Mass.; Dr. James Brown Scott, solicitor of the state department; Charles B. Warren of Detroit, Mich., and Robert Lansing of Watertown, N. Y.

The counsel on behalf of Great Britain were A. B. Aylesworth, minister of justice of Canada, agent; Sir William Robinson, K. C., attorney-general for England; Sir Robert Finly, K. C., former attorney-general for England; Sir Bobert Finly, K. C., former attorney-general for England; John S. Ewart, K. C., of Canada; George W. Shepley, K. C., of Canada; W. N. Tilley of Canada; Sir Edward Morris, K. C., premier of Newfoundland; Sir James Wirter, K. C., former attorney-general of Newfoundland, and D. Morison, K. C., attorney-general of Newfoundland.

or Newroundiand.

Seven main qu-stions were submitted for the decision of the arbitrators. The questions and findings were as follows:

1. Must any reasonable regulations made by Great Britain. Canada and Newfoundiand in the form of municipal laws. ordinances or rules, necessary for the preservation of the fisheries and the maintenance of public order and morals and equitable as between local fishermen and inhabitants of the United States, be subject to the consent of the United States, United States?

The right of Great Britain to make regulations for the preservation of the fisheries without the consent of the United States is affirmed and is declared to be inherent to the sovereign rights of Great Britain. Both parties agree that the reasonableuess of the existing regulations should be submitted to an impartial commission of experts. If the United States object to any new regulation it shall not come into operation with respect to the inhabitants of the United States until a permanent mixed fishery commission has decided upon its reasonableness.

2. Have the inhabitants of the United States,

2. Have the inhabitants of the United States, while exercising the liberty to take fish on the treaty coasts, referred to in the first article of the treaty of 1818, a right to employ, as members of the fishing crews of their vessels, persons not inhabitants of the United States?

The tribunal is of opinion that the inhabitants of the United States while exercising the liberties referred to in the said article have the right to employ, as members of the fishing crews of their vessels, persons not inhabitants of the United States. But, in view of preceding considerations, the tribunal, to prevent any misunderstanding as to the effect of its award, expresses the opinion that noninhabitants employed as members of the fishing crews of United States vessels derive no that noninhabitants employed as members of the fishing crews of United States vessels derive no benefit or immunity from the treaty.

3. Can the liberties to "take fish" and to "dry and cure fish" in the places referred to in the treaties be subjected, without the consent of the United States, to the requirement of entry or report at custom houses or the payment of light, harbor or other dues, or to any similar condition?

The tribunal decides and awards as follows: The requirement that on American fishing ressel should

The tribunal decides and awards as follows: The requirement that an American fishing vessel should report, if proper conveniences for doing so are at hand, is not unreasonable. But the exercise of the fishing liberty by the inhabitants of the United States should not be subjected to the purely commercial formalities of report, entry and clearance at a custom house, nor to light, harbor or other dues not imposed upon Newfoundland fishermen.

dues not imposed upon Newfoundland fishermen.

4. Can restrictions be imposed upon American fishermen making the exercise of the privileges granted them by the treaty to enter certain bays or harbors for shelter, repairs, wood and water conditional upon the payment of light, harbor or other dues, or enterling or reporting at custom houses, or any similar conditions?

It is decided and awarded that such restrictions are not permissible. It seems reasonable, however, in order that these privileges accorded by Great Britain on these grounds of hospitality and humanity should not be abused, that the American fishermen entering such bays for any of the four purposes aforesaid and remaining more than forty-eight hours therein should be required, if thought necessary by Great Britain or the colonial government, to report either in person or by telegraph at a custom house or to a customs official, if reasonably convenient opportunity therefor is afforded.

5. What is a "bay" within the meaning of the reaty?

The tribunal decides and awards: In case of bays three marine miles are to be measured from a straight line drawn across the body of water at a straight line drawn across the body of water at the place where it ceases to have the configuration and characteristics of a bay. At all other places the three marine miles are to be measured following the sinusoities of the coast. Considering that the tribunal cannot overlook that this answer to question five, although correct in principle and the only one possible in view of the want of a sufficient basis for a more concrete answer, is not entirely satisfactory as to its practical applicability and that it leaves room for doubts and differences in practice: therefore, the tribunal considers it tis duty to render the decision more practicable and to remove the danger of future differences by adjoining to it a recommendation in virtue of the responsibilities imposed by article IV. of the special agreement. Considering, moreover, that in treaties with France, with the North German confederation and the German empire and likewise in the North sea convention, Great Britain has adoptthe North sea convention, Great Britain has adopted for similar cases the rule that only bays of ten miles width should be considered as those wherein the fishing is reserved to nationals, and that in the course of negotiations between Great Britain and the United States a similar rule has been on various occasions proposed and adopted by Great Britain in instructions to the naval officers stationed on these coasts, and that though these circumstances are not sufficient to constitute this a principle of law, it seems reasonable to propose this rule with certain exceptious, all the more that the North sea convention, Great Britain has adopt-this rule with such exceptions has already formed the basis of an agreement between the two powers.

6. Does the treaty give the inhabitants of the United States the same liberty to take fish in the bays, barbors and creeks of Newfoundland as it does in the bays, harbors and creeks of Labrador? The tribunal is of opinion that American inhabitants are entitled to fish in the bays, creeks and harbors of the treaty coasts of Newfoundland and the Magdalen islands, and it is so decided and awarded.

7. Are the inhabitants of the United States.

7. Are the inhabitants of the United States, whose vessels resort to the treaty coasts for the purpose of exercising the liberties referred to in article I. of the treaty, entitled to have for those vessels, when duly authorized by the United States in that behalf, the commercial privileges on the treaty coasts accorded by agreement or otherwise to United States trading vessels generally?

The tribunal is of opinion that the inhabitants of the United States are so entitled in so far as concerns this treaty, there being nothing in its provisions to disentitle them, provided the treaty liberty of fishing and the commercial privileges are rot exercised concurrently, and it is so decided and awarded.

are not exercised concurrently, and it is so declared and awarded.

The document is signed by the five arbitrators, Dr. Drago, however, stating his dissent from the majority in respect to the findings in reply to the fifth question.

FOUNDATION FOR THE PROMOTION OF INDUSTRIAL PEACE.

Established in 1907.

In 1906 President Theodore Roosevelt was awarded the Alfred B. Nobel peace prize and at his sugestion an act was passed by congress March 2, 1907, establishing the Foundation for the Promotion of Industrial Peace. To this organization be turned over the money received from the Nobel committee to be used as the nucleus of a fund the income of which is to be used in promoting an annual conference in Washington between representatives of capital and of labor with a view to bringing about a better understanding between employers and ema better understanding between employers and emno in 1997.

In 1997.

In ployes, thus promoting industrial peace. The chief instice of the United States, the secretary of agriculture and the secretary of commerce and labor, and their successors in office, and four persons appointed by the president of the United States to represent capital, labor and the general public, are the trustees. The trustees are authorized to pay over the funds from time to time to a committee of nine members, known as "the industrial peace committee," whose duty it is to make arrangements for the conferences.

THE SAGE FOUNDATION.

March 12, 1997, Mrs. Russell Sage of New York announced that she had set aside the sum of $10,-000,000 to be known as the Sage foundation and to be devoted to the improvement of the social and living conditions in the United States. As trustees she appointed Robert W. DeForest, Cleveland H. Dodge, Daniel C. Gilman, John M. Glenn, Miss Helen Gould, Mrs. William B. Rice and Miss Louise L. Schuyler.

THE GENERAL EDUCATION BOARD.

Organized Feb. 27, 1902.

Chairman—Frederick T. Gates.
Treasurer—George Foster Peabody.
Secretary—Wallace Buttrick.
Other members—Robert C. Ogden, Walter H.
J. Murphy, Hugh H. Hanna, E. Benjamin Andrews, Edwin A. Alderman, Hollis B. Frissell, Harry Pratt Judson, Charles W. Ellot, Andrew Carnegie.
Offices—2 Rector street, New York city.

The general education board was informally organized Feb. 27, 1902, at the suggestion of John D. Rockefeller's committee on benevolence and was given a charter by congress and formally organized in January, 1903. The plan was designed and adapted to assist Mr. Rockefeller in distributing adapted to assist Mr. Rockefeller in distributing his gifts to education and to afford a medium through which other men of means might contribute to the same end. The board, a few days after its initial meeting, received from Mr. Rockefeller the sum of $1.000.000, the use of which was to be confined to the study and promotion of education in the southern states. An office was opened in New York city April 1, 1902, and work was begun. The board in co-operation with the department of agriculture took steps to educate the farmers of the south in scientific farming and up to the sumer of 1908 had established about 15.000 demonstrathe south in scientific farming and up to the sum-mer of 1908 had established about 15.000 demonstra-tion farms under the supervision of eighty-nine agents in Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, Virginia and Florida. The board also, in co-oueration with the state uni-versities of Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee and Florida and the department of education in Louislana has estab-lished more than 500 high schools. About $700.000 of the original sum given by Mr. Rockefeller has been expended in this way, about half being for schools for colored people.

been expended in this way, about half being for schools for colored people.

June 30, 1995, the board was notified that Mr. Rockefeller would donate $10,000,000, the principal of which was to be held in perpetuity as a foundation for education, the income to be used for the benefit of institutions of learning in such manner as might be deemed best adapted to promote a comprehensive system of higher education in the United States. This sum was paid in cash Oct.

1, 1905, and the board in accepting it designated it as "The John D. Rockefeller Foundation for Higher Education." After due consideration the board adopted the following principles as defining its general policy: "To co-operate sympathetically board adopted the following principles as defining its general policy: "To co-operate sympathetically and helpfully with the religious denominations; to choose the centers of wealth and population as the permanent pivots of an educational system; to mass its funds on endowments, securing in this work the largest possible local co-operation." Feb. 7, 1907, the following letter was received from John D. Rockefeller, Jr.:

"Gentlemen: My father authorizes me to say that on or before April 1, 1907, he will give to the general education board income-bearing securities, the present market value of which is about $32,- general education board income-bearing securities, the present market value of which is about $32,000,000, one-third to be added to the permanent endowment of the board; two-thirds to be applied to such specific objects within the corporate purposes of the board as either he or I may from time to time direct, any remainder not so designated at the death of the survivor to be added also to the permanent endowment of the board."

July 7, 1909, Mr. Rockefeller, through his son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., notified the board that he had decided to give $10,000,000 additional to the permanent fund, the income to be devoted to present needs of great importance. The board was also authorized to distribute the principal of the fund, and all other endowment funds hitherto con-fund, and all other endowment funds hitherto con-tributed by Mr. Rockefeller, whenever in the dis-cretion of the members or their successors it should be deemed advisable to do so.

should be deemed advisable to do so.

In the northern states the board devotes itself exclusively to the promotion of higher education, having always in view the desirability of adding such institutions as, taken together, will constitute an adequate system of higher education for each of the several states, thus seeking to correct and prevent duplication and waste and securing the highest efficiency. In the southern states its work for the colleges is similar to that in the north, but in addition it seeks to promote public high schools. in addition it seeks to promote public high schools, to promote elementary education by increasing the productive efficiency of rural life and to aid in developing schools for the training of leaders among the colored people.

NINTH ZIONIST CONGRESS.

The ninth Zionist congress was held in Hamburg. Germany, Dec. 26-31, 1909, with 350 delegates from all parts of the world in attendance. It was decided by resolution to gradually transfer all Zionist capital to Palestine, and to make Palestine the only center for its financial and industrial operations. It was announced by Dr. Max Nordau that the executive committee adhered to the original or Basle plan, making the return of the Jewish people to the boly land conditional upon the consent of the Turkish government that they be allowed to form a nationality within the Ottoman empire like the other nationalities there and to be recognized as such. The recent changes in Turkey, it was asserted, had not made it necessary to alter the terms of the old programme—"a publicly recognized, legally assured home for the Jewish people in Palestine." Encouraging reports were received as to the progress of Jerusalem school for trades and art, established some years ago, and as to the prospects of the proposed technical institute at Haifa and the laboratory for scientific agricultural research at Zikhron Jacob, Palestine tine

Of the previous Zionist congresses six were held in Basle, Switzerland, one in London, England, and one in The Hague, Holland.

ARRIVAL IN EUROPE.

ARRIVAL IN EUROPE.

Mr. Roosevelt sailed from Alexandria, Egypt, March 20, for Naples, Italy, where he arrived Satrarday morning, April 2. The following day he went to Rome, where it was announced that arrangements for an audience with the pope had fallen through because Mr. Roosevelt did not desire to comply with conditions limiting his freedom of conduct. Monday, April 4, the former president was cordially received by King Victor Emmanuel in the Quirinal.

After spending some time at Porto Maurizio with relatives, Mr. Roosevelt and family proceeded to Venice, where he met the duke of the Abruzi and many others. Then he went on to Vienna, where he was received with royal honors by Emperor Francis Joseph. The latter gave a dinner, April 16, at the Schoenbrunn palace in Mr. Roosevelt's honor, at which many members of the cabinet and court officinis were present. April 18 and 19 Mr. Roosevelt spent at Budapest, Hungary, where he was the guest of Count Apponyl and others. His welcome here was as hearty as he experienced on his whole trip, the Magyars doing all in their power to honor and please him.

On the morning of April 21 Mr. Roosevelt event of his stay in the French metropolis was his lecture at the Sorbonne on the subject. "The Dutles of Citizenship." It was delivered before the French Academy April 23, in the presence of 3,000 auditors. On Monday, the 25th, he was received by the mulcipality of Paris, and the following two days were spent by him in sightseeing and in attending a military review and an aviation meet. Thursday, April 28, he reached Brussels, Belgium, where he dined at the palace with King Albert and attended a reception by the hurromaster. burgomaster.

From Belgium Mr. Roosevelt and his party went to Holland visiting Amsterdam. The Hague and Haarlem. Queen Withelmina and the prince consort, as well as all the people of the Netherlands showed the former president, who is partly of Dutch descent, every honor in their power. Continuing his fourney, Mr. Roosevelt arrived in Copenhagen, Denmark, May 2, and was cordially greeted by Crown Prince Christian in the absence of King Haakon. After receiving many courtesies, official and private, and a visit to Elsinore, he proceeded to Christiania, Norway, arriving there May 4. King Haakon and Queen Maud gave him an especially warm welcome, as did the Norwegian people generally, though they were in mourning for the recent death of Bjornstjerne Bjornson. Thursday, May 5, he delivered his Nobel peace prize lecture on "International Peace" before an audiqueen, in the state theater. The following day the University of Norway bestowed upon him the honorary degree of doctor of philosophy. In spite of the death of King Edward in London on the night of May 6, Mr. Roosevelt received a popular welcome in Stockholm, where he arrived on the morning of the 7th. Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf did the royal honors in the absence of the king, who was in France.

IN GERMANY AND ENGLAND.

Great preparations had been made by Emperor William to welcome and entertain Mr. Roosevelt in Berlin, where the former president arrived on the morning of May 10, but the plans had to be modified on account of the death of the kaiser's uncle. King Edward. However, much of the programme was carried through, the main features being a sham battle at Doberitz and a lecture by the visitor at the University of Berlin, which conferred upon him the honorary degree of doctor of philosophy. The emperor showed Mr. Roosevelt many and unusual courtesies, accompanying him personally at the maneuvers, attending his lecture on "The World Movement" and honoring him in other ways. ways.

on "The world Movement and nonoring him in other ways.

Refore leaving Berlin, May 15, Mr. Roosevelt was appointed a special envoy of the United States to attend the funeral of King Edward. On his arrival in London, May 16, he was cordially but, of course, very quietly received. He was the subject of much private hespitality and was received by King George V. and by Alexandra, the queen mother. He attended the funeral of Edward VII. May 20, and passed the time quietly until May 31, when he was presented with the freedom of the city of London at the Guildhall. On this occasion he made a speech with reference to the British policy in Egypt, which caused much comment by its frankness. He intimated that, while Great Britain had given Egypt the best government the country had had in 2,000 years, it had erred in the direction of timidity and sentimertality. June 7 Mr. Roosevelt delivered the Romanes lecture, at Oxford university, taking as his subject

RETURN HOME.

June 10 Mr. Roosevelt and family seiled for home on the Kalserin Auguste Victoria, and arrived in New York Saturday morning. June 18. The welcome given the former president here by hundreds of thousands of his fellow citizens has never been surpassed in the history of the country. The features were a naval parade in the harbor, and official welcome by Mayor William J. Gaynor of New York at the Battery and a ride through the center of the city, with members of the old rough riders' regiment as escort. At the conclusion of

DEATH OF FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE.

Florence Nightingale, widely known for her work as a nurse in the Crimean war, died in London, England, Aug. 14, 1910. She was named after the city of Florence, Italy, where she was born May 12, 1820. Her father, a wealthy Englishman, gave her a classical education, and following a natural inclination she made a study of nursing in England and Germany. She proceeded to the Crimea in 1854 and worked so energetically in nursing and caring for the wounded and sick British soldiers that her health was broken and she became an invalid for the rest of her life. Subsequently a testimonial offering in the shape of $250,000 was given her, and she used the money in establishing the Nightingale home for the training of nurses. In 1908 the freedom of the city of London was conferred money her. ing of nurses. In 1908 the freed London was conferred upon her.

The exact number of pieces of baggage, including all trunks, valises, boxes, packages and hand bags of all descriptions accompanying the passenger must be stated in the declaration.

The forms above mentioned will be distributed to passengers during the early part of the voyage by an officer of the ship. When a passenger has prepared and signed the declaration he must detach and retain the coupon at the bottom of the form and return the form to the officer of the ship designated to receive the same. Declarations spolled in the preparation must not be destroyed, but turned over to the purser, who will furnish a new blank to the passenger.

After all the baggage and effects of the passenger are landed upon the pier the coupon which has been retained by the passenger must be presented at the inspector's desk, whereupon an inspector will be destailed to examine the baggage. Passengers must acknowledge in person on the pier their signatures to their declarations.

Use does not exempt from duty wearing apparel or other articles obtained abroad, but such articles will be appraised at their present value. Residents of the United States may also bring with them free of duty all wearing apparel and other personal effects taken by them out of the United States which have not been remodeled or improved abroad so as to increase their value. Residents of the United States must not deduct the $100 exemption from the value of other articles obtained abroad by purchase or their wearing apparel or otherwise. Such deduction will be made by customs officers on the pier.

OTHER GOODS.

Household effects of persons or families from foreign countries will be admitted free of duty if actually used abroad by them not less than one year and not intended for any other person nor for sale. Such effects should be declared whether the passenger be a foreigner or resident of the United States.

Articles intended for other persons, for use in business, theatrical apparel, properties and sceneries must also be declared by passengers, whether foreigners or residents.

CIGARS AND CIGARETTES.

CIGARS AND CIGARETTES.

All cigars and cigarettes must be declared, and are not included within the $100 exemption. Each passenger over 18 years of age is entitled to bring in free of duty and internal-revenue tax either fifty cigars or 300 cigarettes for his or her bona-fide individual personal consumption.

Passengers dissatisfied with values placed upon dutiable articles by the customs officers on the piers may demand a re-examination, but application therefor should be immediately made to the officers there in charge. If, for any reason, this course is impracticable, the packages containing the articles should be left in customs custody and application for reappraisement made to the collector of customs, in writing, within two days after the original appraisement. No request for reappraisement can be entertained after the articles have been removed from customs custody.

Government officers are forbidden by law to accept anything but currency in payment of duties, but, if requested, will retain baggage on the piers for twenty-four hours to enable the owner to secure the currency.

Passengers are advised that to offer or give greater than the content of the college of the currency.

DEATH OF CHIEF JUSTICE FULLER.

Melville Weston Fuller, chief justice of the United States Supreme court, died at his summer home at Sorrento, Me., Jujy 4, 1910. Though 77 years of age he was in excellent health up to the hour of his death, which was caused by a suiden attack of heart disease. He was born in Augusta, Me., Feb. 11, 1833, and came to Chicago in 1836. His education was obtained in the public schools, Bowdoin college and the Harvard law school. Admitted to the ber in 1855 he practiced his profession with success until April, 1888, when President Grover Cleveland appointed him chief justice of the United States Supreme court. In politics he was a democrat. He was buried in Graceland cemetery, Chicago.

STATES AND TERRITORIES IN THE UNION.

There are forty-six states in the union and five territories, the latter including Arizona, New Mexico, Hawaii, the District of Columbia and Alaska. The first three are regularly organized territories, each with a governor and legislative assembly. The District of Columbia is governed by three commissioners appointed by the president of the United States under laws passed directly by congress. Alaska has a governor appointed by the president, but has no legislature. It is under the direct control of congress. Porto Rico, the Philippines and other island possessions of the United States are not technically territories, each having a special form of government.

Copyright may also be had of the works of an author of which copies are not reproduced for sale by the deposit with claim of copyright of one complete copy, if it be a lecture or similar production, or a dramatic or musical composition; of a photographic print if it be a photograph, or of a photograph or other identifying reproduction thereof if it be a work of art or a plastic work or drawing.

Atter converient has been secured there must be identifying reproduction thereof if it be a work of art or a plastic work or drawing.

After copyright has been secured there must be deposited in the copyright office in Washington, D. C., two complete copies of the best edition thereof, which copies, if the work be a book or periodical, shall have been produced in accordance with the manufacturing provisions of the act, or if such work be a contribution to a periodical for which contribution special registration is requested one copy of the issue or issues containing such contribution. Failure to deposit the copies within a given time after notice from the register of copyrights makes the proprietor of the copyright lable to a fine of $100 and twice the retail price of the work and the copyright becomes void.

The text of all books and periodicals specified in paragraphs (a) and (b) above, except the original text of a book of foreign origin in a language other than English, must in order to secure protection be printed from type set within the limits of the United States, either by hand, machinery or other process, and the printing of the text and the binding of the books must also be done within the United States. An affidavit of such manufacture is required.

The notice of copyright required consists either

ESPERANTO SIMPLIFIED. OR IDO.

By E. F. McPike and O. H. Mayer, Chicago representatives of the "Delegation for the Adoption of an International Auxiliary Language."

Esperanto, the proposed international auxiliary language, published in 1887 by Dr. L. Zamenhof, an oculist of Warsaw, Poland, was welcomed by many, as it became more generally known in 1904, many, as it became more generally known in 1904, 1905 and 1906; but the practical application of the language to many topics, as well as a thorough theoretical examination, brought out a number of defects. An international committee of eminent philologists, logicians, linguists and men of science, representing the "Delegation for the Adoption of an International Auxiliary Language," and comprising the representatives of 310 societies of all countries and 1,250 members of academies and universities, met in Paris in October, 1907, and, as says the Scientific American supplement of June 18, 1910, in a long editorial, after an exhaustive study of all international language projects published heretofore, and especially of Esperanto, with the result that we are to-day in possession of a language which, in respect of facilities. possession of a language which, in respect of facility, lucidity, variety and elegance of expression, represents the piunacle of internaional speech. The new language, whose official name is 'International Language of the Delegation,' is often called in short 'Ido'—that is, a descendant, because it sprang from Esperanto."

The following are the chief alterations effected:

1. All accented letters done away with, making it possible to print the language anywhere, while preserving phonetic spelling and often restoring the international orthography.

- 2. Suppression of a few grammatical rules that were unnecessary and very troublescene for most nations, and chiefly for people with little knowledge of grammar (accusative, agreement of the adjective).
- 3. Word-building made regular, this being the only means to prevent the influx of national idloms and to give a solid basis to the scientific and technical vocabulary, without which the international language cannot obtain a footing in the world of science.
- 4. The vocabulary made richer by the adoption of new roots, carefully selected according to the principle of the maximum of internationality.
- All the words are formed from international All the words are formed from international roots, i. e., roots found in most European languages, so that they are known without study by every fairly educated man. It is not a new language to learn; it is the quintessence of European languages. But it is easier beyond comparison than any of the latter, on account of its absolute simplicity and regularity. It is learned by reading; when you can read it you can write it; when you can write it you can speak it. And it has been proved by experience that people from the most different countries pronounce it so nearly alike as to make any difference trifling and by no means troublesome. means troublesome.

Although but two and a half years before the public, ido counts already twelve magazines and 150 propaganda societies in many countries. Its directing committee is headed by the chemist, Prof. Ostwald of Leipsic (Nobel prize in 1909), the physicist; Prof. Pfaundler of Graz, member of the Imperial Academy of Sciences of Vienna, and Prof. Lorenz of the Technical University of Frankfort-on-the-Main; its academy is headed by the philologist, Prof. Jespersen of Copenhagen, member of the Royal Danish Academy of Sciences, and the philosopher, Dr. L. Couturat of Paris, sometime professor at the University of Toulouse.

THE CARNEGIE HERO FUND.

April 15, 1904. Andrew Carnegie placed in the hands of a commission the sum of $5,000,000 to be known as "the hero fund." Its purpose is to reward with medals and money the men and women who perform heroic deeds, or, in case they lose their lives, to care for those dependent upon them. Widows are given support until they remarry and children are given support until they are 16 years of age. Only such as follow praceful vocations on sea or land in the United States and Canada are eligible to become beneficiaries of the fund. The first awards of medals and money were made in May, and others in October, 1905. The names of the recipients with the reason for the award in each case will be found in The Dally News Almanac and Year-Book beginning with the volume for 1906.

The summer of 1910 was warm and dry throughout the greater part of the United States. the heat and drought resulting in considerable damage to crops and in extensive forest fires in Wisconsin, Michigan, Minneson, Idaho and Montana. The spring was rather late and cold in the north central states, though on the southern Pacific slope it was unusually arm. In Los Angeles, Cal., the thermometer registered 100 degress above zero April thermometer registered 100 degress above zero April 23, the warmest weather experienced there at that time of year since the government began keeping a record. It began to get warm in the Mississippi arlier in June and culminated in a general hot wave in the third week of July. On the 25th and 26th of that month the thermometer ranged from 90 to 109 degrees above, the highest temperatures being registered in Oklahoma, Missouri, Kansas, Texas, Arkarsas and Colorado, In Chicaco, July 24, it was 97 degrees above. The heat continued with brief interruptions well into August.

UNITED STATES CIVIL SERVICE.

Civil-service act approved Jan. 16, 1883.

Officers—Three commissioners are appointed by the president to assist him in classifying the government offices and positions, formulating rules and enforcing the law. Their office is in Washington, D. C. The chief examiner is appointed by the commissioners to secure accuracy, uniformity and justice in the proceedings of the examining boards. The secretary to the commission is appointed by the president the president commissioners to secure accuracy, uniformity and instice in the proceedings of the examining boards. The secretary to the commission is appointed by the president.

General Rules—The fundamental rules governing appointments to government positions are found in the civil-service act itself. Based upon these are many other regulations formulated by the commission and promulgated by the president from time to time as new contingencies arise. The present rules were approved March 20, 1903, and went into effect April 15, 1903. In a general way they require that there must be free, open examinations of applicants for positions in the public service; that appointments shall be made from those graded highest in the examinations; that appointments to the service in Washington shall be apportioned among the states and territories according to population; that there shall be a period (six months) of probation before any absolute appointment is made; that no person in the public service is for that reason obliged to contribute to any political fund or is subject to dismissal for refusing to so contribute; that no person in the public service has any right to use his official authority or influence to coerce the political action of any person. Applicants for positions shall not be questioned as to their political or religious beliefs and no discrimination shall be exercised against or in favor of any applicant or employe on account of his religion or politics. The classified civil service shall include all officers and employes in the executive civil service of the United States except laborers and persons whose appointments are subject to confirmation by the senate.

Examinations—These are conducted by boards of examiners chosen from among persons in government employs and are held twice a year in all the states and territories at convenient places. In Illinois, for example, they are usually held at Cairo. Chicago and Peorla. The dates are announced through the newspapers or by other means. They can always be learned by ap internal revenue. 21 years and over; railway mail, internal revenue. 21 years and over; railway mail, 18 to 35; lighthouse, 18 to 50; life saving, 18 to 45; general departmental. 20 and over. These age limitations are subject to change by the commission. They do not apply to applicants of the preferred class. Applicants for the position of railway mail clerk must be at least 5 feet 6 inches in height, exclusive of boots or shoes, and weigh not less than 135 pounds in ordinary clothing and have no physical defects. Applicants for certain other positions have to come up to similar physical requirements. quirements sitions have to come up to similar physical requirements.

Method of Appointment—Whenever a vacancy exists the appointing officer makes requisition upon the civil-service commission for a certification of names to fill the vacancy, specifying the kind of position vacant, the sex desired and the salary. The commission thereupon takes from the proper register of eligibles the names of three persons standing highest of the sex called for and certifies them to the appointing officer, who is required to make the selection. He may choose any one of the three names, returning the other two to the register to await further certification. The time of examination is not considered, as the highest in average percentage on the register must be certified first. If after a probationary period of six months the name of the appointee is continued on the roll of the department in which he serves the appointment is considered absolute.

Removals—No person can be removed from a competitive position except for such cause as will promote the efficiency of the public service and for reasons given in writing. No examination of witnesses nor any trial shall be required except in the discretion of the officer making the removal.

Salarles—Entrance to the department service is usually in the lowest grades, the higher grades being generally filled by promotion. The usual entrance grade is about $900, but the applicant may be appointed at $840, $760 or even $600.

THE CARNEGIE FOUNDATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF TEACHING.

In April, 1905, Andrew Carnegie transferred to a board of trustees $10,000,000 in United States Steel corporation fifty-year bonds bearing 5 per cent interest, the purpose of the trust fund thus created being to provide retiring allowances or annuities to teachers in the higher institutions of learning in the United States, Canada, and Newfoundland under the United States, Canada, and Newfoundland under such regulations as the trustees might decide to be wise. Schools below the rank of college and institutions directly under the control of religious denominations are excluded from the benefits of the fund. State universities were also originally excluded from the benefits of the fund, but March 31, 1908, Mr. Carnegie, at the request of the National Association of State Universities, admitted them and at the same time added to the foundation $5,000,000 in 5 per cent bonds, making the fund $15,000,000 in all. The state universities of Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota and Missouri were admitted in 1909.

Michigan, Minnesota and Missouri were admitted in 1909.

The policy of the board has been to confer the retiring allowances through the institutions themselves rather than to individual teachers, on the principle that the annuity must come as a right and not as a charity. The professors in the accepted institutions receive retired pay in due course and under established rules. Allowances are granted on the basis of age, service and disability. Any person 65 years of age who has had not less than fifteen years of service as professor or not less than its of the professor of an instructor or as instructor and professor, and who is at the time a professor or an instructor in an accepted institution, shall be entitled to an annual retiring allowance, computed as follows:

lowance, computed as follows:

towance, computed as follows:

(a) For an active pay of $1,200 or less an allowance of $1,000, provided no retiring allowance shall exceed 90 per cent of the active pay.

(b) For an active pay greater than $1,200 the retiring allowance shall equal $1,000, increased by $50 for each $100 of active pay in excess of $1,200.

(c) No retiring allowance shall exceed $4,000.

Any person who has had twenty-five years of service as a professor or thirty years of service as professor and instructor and who is at the time as processor and instructor and who is at the time either a professor or an instructor in an accepted institution, shall, in the case of disability unfit-ting him for the work of a teacher, as proved by medical examination, be entitled to a retiring al-lowance computed as follows:

(a) For an active pay of $1,200 or less a retiring allowance of $800, provided that no retiring allowance shall exceed 80 per cent of the active pay.

(b) For an active pay greater than $1.200 the retiring allowance shall equal $800, increased by $40 for each $100 in excess of $1,200.

(c) For each additional year of service above twenty-five for a professor or thirty for an instructor the retiring allowance shall be increased by 1 per cent of the active pay.

No retiring allowance shall exceed $4,000. At the beginning of 1910 the foundation was paying 318 pensions, the cost being $466.000. The professors receiving these pensions came from 139 colleges, distributed over forty-three states of the union and provinces of Canada. Following were the officers of administration in 1910:

The national holidays, such as July 4. New Year's, etc., are such by general custom and observance and not because of congressional legislation. Congress has passed no laws establishing holidays for the whole country. It has made Labor day a holiday in the District of Columbia, but the law is of no effect elsewhere.

DESTRUCTIVE FLOOD IN PARIS.

Paris, France, was visited by the most destructive flood in the history of the city between Jan. 20 and Feb. 5, 1910. The Scine rose thirty-one feet six inches above the normal level at Pont Royal, or nearly a foot higher than in 1615, the year of the worst previous flood. The total damage to property in the city and country was roughly estimated at $200,000,000 and between 150,000 and 200,000 persons were made temporarily homeless. Snows and long-continued rains had saturated the valleys of the Marne and the Seine and the narrow channel of the latter river, which runs through the heart of Paris, was unable to carry away the immense volume of water poured into it. The result was that the lower parts of the city to the extent of many square miles on each side of the stream and several of the suburbs were inundated, the houses in some instances being completely submerged. Few lives were lost, soldiers and policemen rescuing those who were in peril. The rise of the water was comparatively slow, allowing nearly everybody not only to reach places of safety but to save considerable personal property. Much of the damage done was caused by the backing up of the water in the sewers, flooding cellars, destroying pavements and weakening the foundations of buildings. In the Seine the water ose almost to the roof of the bridge arches and the danger of collapse was so great that eight of the twenty-four bridges had to be temporarily closed to traffic. The docks were badly washed out and a great deal of property along the quays was carried away. For a time it was feared that some of the historic and monumental buildings of Paris, such as the Louvre, the opera house. Sainte Chapele, Notre Dame cathedral and the Madeleine, would be irreparably damaged, but fortunately his did not prove to be the case. No art treasures of any kind were lost. The basements of the public buildings on the Isle de la Cite were flooded and the old Latin quarter and the Champs de Mars were submerged. The Place de la Concorde and a portion of the Champs Elysees were made impassable and one side of the Place de l'Opera in the very center of the city had to be roped off on account of the caving in of the sidewalk. The sinking of pavements on account of the collapse of sewers was common and many thoroughfares had to be closed. A great part of the subway system was put out of commission and transportation from one part of the city to another was made even more difficult by the flooding of many of the streeter and omnibus routes. Railroad lines also suffered severely and suburban traffic was brought almost to a standstill. The St. Lazre station could scarcely be approached, and only the Gare du Nord was unaffected. This crippling of the railroad communications made the bringing in of provisions difficult and for a few days the prospect of famine prices for food was faced. Fortunately the situation in this respect did not become serious.

Electric and gas-lighting plants were interfered with and the postal service was disorganized. Telegraph lines were crippled in some directions, but communication with the outside world was kept open by means of roundabout lines. Some of the hospitals were flooded to such an extent that the patients had to be removed at the cost of much suffering. Distress among those who were compelled to leave their homes was great until relief measures could be taken to provide food and shelter. The Red Cross society, the Association of French Women, the local and national authorities and individuals worked energetically and successfully to help the destitute, special attention being given to women and children. By Feb. 7 the contributions from foreign sources amounted to more than $300,000 and this sum was largely increased later on.

WEIGHTS OF DIAMONDS AND FINENESS OF GOLD.

The weight of diamonds and other precious stones is expressed in carats, grains and quartergrains. The grains are pearl grains, one of which is equal to four-fifths of a trov grain. Four quarter-grains make one grain and four grains make one carat. A carat is therefore equal to four-fifths of four troy grains, or 3.2.

The fineness of gold is also expressed in carats. Pure gold is said to be twenty-four carats fine. If it contains eight parts of a baser metal or alloy it is only sixteen carats fine. The carats therefore of the gold used by jewelers is about fourteen carats fine, having ten parts of alloy.

Rock Falls to the main line near Sheffield and is of the same size and just as navigable as the main line. Water is forced into it by a dam a quarter of a mile long at Sterling.

NEW YORK STATE BARGE CANAL.

Total length—442 miles.
Width—From 122 to 160 feet.
Depth—From 12 to 20 feet.
Locks—61.

Excavation-175,000,000 cubic yards.

Excavation—175.000,000 cubic yards. Cost—$101.000.000.

Work on the New York state barge canal, or system of canals, according to estimates, will be completed in 1916. The main waterway will follow the line of the present Erie canal in most places from the Hudson river at Waterford, Saratoga county, to Tonawanda and Lake Erie; another division will connect the Hudson with Lake Champlain, while a third branch will run from the main canal at Three Rivers Point to Lake Ontario. The waterway will be wide and deep enough to accommodate steam barges with a maximum canacity of 1.800 tons each. barges with a maximum capacity of 1,800 tons each.

CITIZENSHIP IN THE UNITED STATES.

All persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof are citizens of the United States and of the state wherein they reside. (Fourteenth amendment to the constitution.)

All persons born in the United States and not subject to any foreign power, excluding Indians not taxed, are declared to be citizens of the United States. (Sec. 1992, U. S. Revised Statutes.)

All children heretofore born or hereafter born out of the limits and jurisdiction of the United States, or the limits and jurisdiction of the United States, whose fathers were or may be, at the time of their birth, citizens thereof, are declared to be citizens of the United States; but the rights of citizenship shall not descend to children whose fathers never resided in the United States. (Sec. 1993, U. S. Revised Status.)

Any woman who is now or may hereafter be married to a citizen of the United States and who might herself be lawfully naturalized shall be deemed a citizen. (Sec. 1995, U. S. Revised Statntes.

Children born in the United States of alien parents are citizens of the United States.

When any alien who has formally declared his intention of becoming a citizen of the United States dies before he is actually naturalized the widow and children of such alien are citizens. Children of Chinese parents who are themselves aliens and incapable of becoming naturalized are citizens of the United States.

Children born in the United States of persons engaged in the diplomatic service of foreign governments are not citizens of the United States.
Children born of alien parents on a vessel of a foreign country while within the waters of the United States are not citizens of the United States, but of the country to which the vessel belongs. longs

Children born of alien parents in the United States have the right to make an election of nationality when they reach their majority. Minors and children are citizens within the meaning of the term as used in the constitution. Deserters from the military or naval service of the United States are liable to less of citizenship.

the United States are liable to loss of citizenship.

Any allen being a free white person, an allen of African nativity or of African descent may become an American citizen by complying with the nat-aralization laws.

"Hereafter no state court or court of the United States shall admit Chinese to citizenship; and all laws in conflict with this act are repealed." (Sec. 14. act of May 6, 1882.)

THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION OF 1912.

THE PRESIDENTIAL

The next president and vice-president of the United States will be chosen Nov. 5, 1912. As is well known, these officials are not elected directly by the people, but by electors, who are voted for on the party tickets on the date named. The electors chosen will meet Monday, Jan. 13, 1913, in their respective states and vote by ballot for president and vice-president of the United States. The result will be transmitted to the president of the senate in Washington, Wednesday, Feb. 12, 1913, the electoral votes will be opened and counted in the presence of both houses of congress and the result announced by the president of the senate. While the president and vice-president are thus formally elected in 1913, the actual choice is made in 1912. In the spring, and summpr of that year national party conventions will be held for the nomination of candidates for president and vice-president of the United States for the term beginning March 4, 1913. These conventions are not provided for by the constitution, but it has become the invariable rule that the candidates presented by them are voted for by the presidential electors. The latter are nominated at the state party conventions or primaries and are elected on the first Tuesday after the first Monday of every fourth year preceding the end of the presidential term. Each state is entitled to as many electors as it has senutors and representatives. No senator or representative or person holding an office of trust or honor under the United States may be an elector. The twelfth amendment to the constitution prescribes how the electors shall meet and cast fleir ballots and how congress shall count the votes. The article is as follows:

"The electors shall meet in their respective states and vote by ballot for president and vice-president, and in distinct ballots the person voted for as vice-president, and for the number of votes for each, which list they shall mame in their ballots the person voted for the government of the United States, directed to the pr

"The president of the senate shall, in the presence of the senate and house of representatives, open all the certificates and the votes shall then be counted; the person having the greatest number of votes for president shall be the president, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if no person have such majority, then from the persons having the highest numbers, not exceeding three, on the list of those voted for as president, the house of representatives shall choose immediately by ballot the president. But in choosing the president the votes shall be taken by states, the representation from each state having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the states, and a majority of all the states shall be necessary to a choice. And if the house of representatives shall not choose a president, whenever the right of choice shall devolve upon them, before the 4th Jay of March next following, then the vice-president shall act as president, as in the case of the death or other constitutional disability of the president.

"The person having the greatest number of votes

"The person having the greatest number of votes as vice-president shall be the vice-president, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electures appointed, and if no person have a majority, then from the two highest numbers on the list the senate shall choose the vice-president; a quorum for the purpose shall consist of two-thirds of the whole number of senators, and a majority of the whole number shall be necessary to a choice. But no person constitutionally ineligible to the office of president shall be eligible to that of vice-president of the United States."

Section 5, article II., of the constitution pre-scribes the qualifications of the president as follows:

"No person except a natural born citizen or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of the constitution shall be eligible to the office of president; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained to the age of 35 years and been fourteen years a resident within the United States."

The qualifications of the vice-president are the same as those of the president.

"1. The immediate government relief for the un-

"1. The immediate government relief for the unemployed workers by building schools, by reforesting of cutover and waste lands, by reclamation of arid tracts, and the building of canals, and by extending all other useful public works. All persons employed on such works shall be employed directly by the government under an eight-hour workday and at the prevailing union wages. The government shall also loan money to states and municipalities, without interest, for the purpose of carrying on public works. It shall contribute to the funds of labor organizations for the purpose of assisting their unemployed members, and shall take such other measures within its power as will assisting their unemployed members, and snail take such other measures within its power as will lessen the widespread misery of the workers caused by the misrule of the capitalist class.

"2. The collective ownership of railroads, telegraphs, telephones, steamship lines and all other means of social transportation and communication, and all land.

"2. The collective ownership of all industries which are organized on a national scale and in which competition has virtually ceased to exist.

"4. The extension of the public domain to include mines, quarries, oil wells, forests and water power.

"5. The occupancy and use of land to be sole title to possession. The scientific reforestation of timber lands and the reclamation of swamp lands. The land so reforested or reclaimed to be permanently retained as a part of the public domain.

"6. The absolute freedom of press, speech and assemblage.

The improvement of the industrial condition

"7. The improvement of the industrial condition of the workers—

(a). By shortening the workday in keeping with the increased productiveness of machinery.

(b) By securing to every worker a rest period of not less than a day and a half in each week.

SOCIALIST LABOR.

Adopted at New York city, July 5.

The socialist labor party at its national convention in New York city, July 2-5, 1908, reaffirmed the platform adopted in 1904. This, in substance, advocates the ending of the present struggle between the capitalist and laboring classes by placing the land and the means of production, transportation and distribution into the hands of the people as a collective, body and substituting the according and distribution into the hands of the people as a collective body and substituting the co-operative commonwealth for the present state of planless production, industrial war and social disorder—a commonwealth in which every worker shall have the free exercise and full benefit of his faculties, multiplied by all the modern factors of civilization.

DEMOCRATIC.

Adopted at Denver, July 10.

The platform denounces the waste of the people's money through extravagant appropriations by congress and the increase in the number of officeholders. It charges that the house of representatives has ceased to be a deliberative and legislative body, responsive to the will of the majority of its members, and has come under the absolute domination of the speaker. It pledges the democratic party to the enactment of a law preventing corporations from making campaign contributions and any individual from contributing an amount above a reasonable maximum and providing for the publication of contributions. It opposes the extension of the powers of the general government by judicial construction and insists that federal remedies for the regulation of interstate commerce and for the prevention of private monopoly shall be added to, not substituted for, state remedies.

"We favor immediate revision of the tariff by the reduction of import duties. Articles entering into competition with trust-controlled products should be placed upon the free list and material reductions should be made in the tariff upon the necessaries of life, especially upon articles competing with such American manufactures as are sold abroad more cheaply than at home; and graduate reductions should be made in such other schedules as able. We, therefore, favor the vigorous enforcement of the criminal law against guilty trust magnates and officials, and demand the enactment of such ad-ditional legislation as may be necessary to make it and omciais, and demand the enactment or such additional legislation as may be necessary to make it impossible for a private monopoly to exist in the United States. Among the additional remedies we specify three: First, a law preventing a duplication of directors among competing corporations; second, a license system which will, without abridging the right of each state to create corporations or its right to regulate as it will foreign corporations of only business within its limits, make it necessary for a manufacturing or trading corporations doing business within its limits, make it necessary for a manufacturing or trading corporations much as 25 per cent of the product in which it deals, the license to protect the public from watered stock and to prohibit the control by such corporations of more than 50 per cent of the total amount of any product consumed in the United States; and third, a law compelling such licensed corporation to sell to all purchasers in all parts of the country on the same terms, after making due allowance for cost of transportation.

We demand the immediate repeal of the tariff on wood pulp, print paper, lumber, timber and logs and that these articles be placed upon the free list.

"We assert the right of congress to exercise com-ance for cost of transportation.

"We assert the right of congress to exercise complete control over interstate commerce and the right of each state to exercise like control over commerce within its borders. We demand such enlargement of the powers of the interstate-commerce commission as may be necessary to compel railroads to perform their duties as common carriers and prevent discrimination and extortion. We favor the efficient supervision and rate regulation of railroads to roads engaged in interstate commerce, and to this end we recommend the valuation of railroads by the interstate-commerce commission, such valuation roads engaged in interstate commerce, and to this end we recommend the valuation of railroads by the interstate-commerce commission, such valuation to take into consideration the physical value of the property, the original cost, cost of production and all elements of value that will render the valuation fair and just. We favor such legislation as will prohibit the railroads from engaging in business which brings them into competition with their shippers, also legislation preventing the overissue of stocks and bonds by interstate railroads and legislation which will assure such reduction in transportation rates as conditions will permit, care being taken to avoid reductions that would compel a reduction of wages, prevent adequate service or do injustice to legitimate investment. We favor such legislation as will increase the power of the interstate-commerce commission, giving to it the initiative with reference to rates and transportation charges put into effect by the railroad companies and permitting the interstate-commerce commission on its own initiative to declare a rate illegal and as being more than should be charged for such service. We further declare in favor of a law providing that all agreements of traffic or other associations of railway agents affecting interstate rates, service or classification shall be unlawful unless filed with and approved by the interstate-commerce commission.

"We favor a postal savings bank, if the guaranstate-commerce commission.

lawful unless filed with and approved by the interstate-commerce commission.

"We favor a postal savings bank, if the gnaranteed bank cannot be secured, and believe that it should be so constituted as to keep the deposited money in the community where the deposited money in the community where the depositors live. But we condemn the policy of the republican party in proposing postal savings banks under a plan of conduct by which they will aggregate the deposits of rural communities and redeposit the same while under government charge in the banks of Wall street, thus depleting the circulating medium of the producing regions and unjustly favoring the speculative markets.

"We favor an income tax as part of our revenue system, and we urge the submission of a constitutional amendment specifically authorizing congress to levy and collect a tax upon individual and corporate incomes, to the end that wealth may bear its proportionate share of the burdens of the federal government.

"Experience has proved the necessity of a modification of the present law relating to injunctions, and we retierate the pledges of our national platforms of 1398 and 1904 in favor of the measure which passed the United States senate in 1896, but which a republican congress has ever since refused to enact relating to contempts in federal courts.

which a republican congress has ever since refused to enact, relating to contempts in federal courts and providing for trial by jury in cases of indirect contempt. Questions of judicial practice have arisen, especially in connection with industrial disputes. We deem that parties to all judicial proceedings should be treated with rigid impartiality and that injunctions should not be issued in any case in which injunctions would not issue if no industrial dispute were involved."

The platform further pledges the democratic party to the enactment of a general employers' listlity law, to the creation of a federal department of labor, represented separately in the president's cabinet, to the upbuilding of the merchant marine without bounties and to the maintenance of an adequate navy. It favors a generous pension policy and advocates the organization of a national bureau of nublic health.

and advocates the organization of a national outcar of public health.

"We favor the election of United States senators of direct vote of the people, and regard this reform as the gateway to other national reforms.

"We earnestly favor the immediate adoption of "We earnestly favor the immediate adoption of a liberal and comprehensive plan for improving every water course in the union which is justified by the needs of commerce, and, to secure that end, we favor, when practicable, the connection of the great lakes with the navigable rivers and with the guif, through the Mississippl river, and the navigable rivers with each other, and the rivers, bays and sounds of our coasts with each other by artificial canals, with a view to perfecting a system of inland waterways, to be navigated by vessels of standard duaft.

"We repeat the demand for internal development "We repeat the demand for internal development and, for the conservation of our natural resources contained in previous platforms, the enforcement of which Mr. Roosevelt has vainly sought from a reluctant party; and to that end we insist upon the preservation, protection and replacement of needed forests, the preservation of the public domain for homeseekers, the protection of the nation's natural resources in timber, coal, iron and oil against monopolistic control, the development of our waterway for navigation and every other useful purpose. ways for navigation and every other useful purpose, including the irrigation of arid lands, the reclamation of swamp lands, the clarification of streams, the

"We condemn the experiment in imperialism as an inexcusable blunder which has involved us in an enormous expense, brought us weakness instead of strength, and laid our nation open to the charge of abandoning a fundamental doctrine of self-government. We favor an immediate declaration of the nation's purpose to recognize the independence of the Philippine islands as soon as a stable government can be established, such independence to be guaranteed by us as we guarantee the independence of the Dhilippine islands can be secured by treaty with other powers. In recognizing the independence of the Philippines our government should retain such land as may be necessary for coaling stations and naval bases."

REPUBLICAN.

Adopted at Chicago, June 18.

Adopted at Chicago, June 1s.

"The republican party declares unequivocally for a revision of the tatiff by a special session of congress immediately following the inauguration of the next president, and commends the steps already taken to this end in the work assigned to the appropriate committees of congress which are now investigating the operation and effect of existing schedules. In all tariff legislation the true principle of protection is best maintained by the imposition of such duties as will equal the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad together with a reasonable profit to American industries. We favor the establishment of maximum and minimum rates to be administered by the president under limitations fixed in the law, the maximum to be available to meet discriminations by foreign countries against American goods entering their markets and the minimum to represent the normal measure of protection at home; the aim and pur-pose of the republican policy being not only to pre-serve, without excessive duties, that security against serve, without excessive duties, that security against foreign competition to which American manufacturers, farmers and producers are entitled, but also maintain the high standard of living of the wage earners of this country, who are the most direct beneficiaries of the protective system. Between the United States and the Philippines we believe in a free interchange of products with such limitations as to sugar and tobacco as will afford adequate protection, to domestic interests. adequate protection to domestic interests.

"We approve the emergency measures adopted by the government during the recent financial disturbance, and especially commend the passage by congress at the last session of the law designed to protect the country from a repetition of such stringency. The republican party is committed to the development of a permanent currency system, responding to our greater needs, and the appointment of the nettonal moneters commission by the present sponding to our greater needs, and the appointment of the national monetary commission by the present congress which will impartially investigate all proposed methods insures the early realization of this purpose.

"We favor the establishment of a postal savings bank system for the convenience of the people and the engagement of third the engagement.

bank system for the convenience of the people and the encouragement of thrift.

"The republican party passed the Sherman antitrust law over democratic opposition, and enforced it after democratic dereliction. It has been a wholesome instrument for good in the hands of a wise and fearless administration. But experience has shown that its effectiveness can be strengthened and its real objects better attained by such amendments as will give to the federal convernment. ened and its real objects better attained by such amendments as will give to the federal government greater supervision and control over, and secure greater publicity in, the management of that class of corporations engaged in interstate commerce baying power and opportunity to effect monopolies. "We approve the enactment of the railroad rate law and the vigorous enforcement by the present administration of the statutes against rebates and discriminations, as a result of which the advantages formerly possessed by the large shipper over the small shipper have substantially disappeared, and in this connection we commend the appropria-tion by the present congress to enable the interstate-commerce commission to thoroughly investigate and give publicity to the accounts of interstate railroads. We believe, however, that the interstate-commerce law should be further amended so as to give railroads the right to make and publish traffic agreements subject to the approval of the commission, but maintaining always the principle of competition between naturally competing lines and avoiding the common control of such lines by any means whatsoever. We favor such national legislation and supervision as will prevent the future overissue of stocks and bonds by interstate carriers.

"The republican party will uphold at all times the authority and integrity of the courts, state and state-commerce commission to thoroughly investigate

"The republican party will uphold at all times the authority and integrity of the courts, state and federal, and will ever insist that their powers to enforce their process and to protect life, liberty and property shall be preserved inviolate. We believe, however, that the rules of procedure in the federal courts with respect to the issuance of the writ of injunction should be more accurately defined by statute and that no injunction or temporary regraining order should be issued without notice, except where irreparable injury would result from delay, in which case a speedy hearing thereafter should be granted.
"We indorse the movement inaugurated by the administration for the conservation of natural re-

"We indorse the movement inaugurated by the administration for the conservation of natural resources; we approve all measures to prevent the waste of timber; we commend the work now going on for the reclamation of arid lands, and reaffirm the republican policy of the free distribution of the available areas of the public domain to the landless settler. No obligation of the future is more insistent and none will result in greater blessings to posterity. In line with this splendid undertaking is the further duty auxily improving the arter upon ent and noue will treat a splendid undertaking is the further duty, equally imperative, to enter upon a systematic improvement upon a large and comprehensive plan, just to all portions of the country, of the waterways, harbors and great lakes, whose natural adaptability to the increasing tradic of the land is one of the greatest gifts of a benign Providence.

"We adhere to the republican doctrine of encouragement to American shipping and urge such legislation as will revive the merchant marine prestige of the country, so essential to national defense, the enlargement of foreign trade and the industrial prosperity of our own people.

"We reaffirm our former declarations that the civil-service laws enacted, extended and enforced by the republican party shall continue to be maintained and obeyed.

"We commend the efforts designed to secure greater efficiency in national public health agencies and favor such legislation as will effect this pur-

"In the interest of the great mineral industries of our country we earnestly favor the establishment of a bureau of mines and mining.
"We favor the immediate admission of the territories of New Mexico and Arizona as separate states in the union."

INDEPENDENCE.

Adopted at Chicago, July 28.

"As of first importance, in order to restore the power of government to the people, to make their will supreme in the primaries, in the elections and in the control of public officials after they have been elected, we declare for direct nominations, the initiative and referendum and the right of recall.

"Representative government is made a mockery by the system of modern party conventions dominated by bosses and controlled by cliques. We demand the natural remedy of direct nominations by which the people not only elect but, which is far more important, select their representatives.

"We believe in the principles of the initiative and approximation and we perticularly demand that no referendum and we particularly demand that no franchise grant go into operation until the terms and conditions have been approved by popular vote in the locality interested.

"We demand for the people the right_to recall we usmanu for the people the right to recall public officials from the public service. ness or betrays the public trust.

"Of next importance in destroying the power of selfish special interests and the corrupt political bosses whom they control is to wrest from their hands their main weapon, the corruption fund. We demand severe and effective legislation against all forms of corrupt practices at elections and advocate prohibiting the use of any money at elections except for meetings, literature and the necessary traveling expenses of candidates.

'From the foundation of our government down to "From the foundation of our government down to 1872 the federal judiciary act prohibited the issue of any injunction without reasonable notice until after a hearing. We assert that in all actions growing out of a dispute between employers and employes concerning terms or conditions of employment no injunction should issue until after a trial upon the merits, that such trial should be had before a jury and that in no case of alleged contempt should any person be deprived of liberty without a trial by jury.

"The independence party declares that the right to issue money is inherent in the government and it favors the establishment of a central governmental bank through which the money so issued shall be put into general circulation.

"We demand a revision of the tariff, not by the friends of the tariff, but by the friends of the people, and declare for a gradual reduction of tariff duties with just consideration for the rights of the consuming public and of established industry. ment."
The platform also favored the passage of an exclusion act to protect American workingmen from competition with Aslatic cheap labor; the building of a navy strong enough to protect at the same time both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of the United States; the building of a ship canal from the lakes to the guif; the protection of American citizens abroad; the popular election of United States senators and of judges, both state and federal, and a graduated income tax.

DECISION IN THE DANBURY HATTERS' CASE.

In the United States Circuit court in Hartford, Conn., Feb. 4. 1910, a jury awarded D. E. Loewe & Co., hat manufacturers in Danbury, Conn., $74,-600 damages in their suit against Martin Lawler and 240 other members of the local unions of the United Hatters of North America for conducting a boycott against the hats made by the firm. Judge J. P. Platt, who presided, instructed the jury to find for the plaintiff and fix the amount of the damages. This was placed at the amount of the damages. This was placed at the amount mamed, but as the Sherman antitrust act, under which the action was brought, allows triple damages, the judge multiplied the $74,000 by three, making the total $222,000.

The suit was originally brought in the Circuit court in 1903, when Loewe & Co. filed a bill alleging that the labor organization had undertaken to unionize the company's hat factory in Danbury, and, falling to do so, had gone on a strike. This set was followed by the declaration of a boycott against the firm's hats wherever they were found, and as it controlled an extensive trade throughout many states the boycott, in the language of the bill, constituted a combination to limit and restrain interstate commerce. On a demurrer by the hatters' union, the Circuit court decided that the Sherman law was inapplicable and dismissed the case. The Court of Alpeals, however, certified the suit to the United States Supreme court, and that ribunal, Feb. 3, 1908, reversed the decision of the Circuit court, deciding without a dissenting voice that boycotting, where it affected interstate commerce, was in violation of the Sherman antitrust act. (See The Daily News Almanac and Year-Book for 1909, page 256.)

The case then went back to the Circuit court. and as it controlled an extensive trade throughout

The case then went back to the Circuit court, and after a trial lasting eleven weeks resulted as stated above. The suit was for $240,000 dsmagce and was instituted by the Antiboycott society through Mr. Loewe. The hatters' union was supported by the American Federation of Labor.

THE HOMESTEAD LAW.

Any person who is the head of a family, or who is 21 years old and is a citizen of the United States or has filed his declaration of intention to become such, and who is not the proprietor of more than 160 acres of land in any state or territory, is entitled to enter one-quarter section (160 acres) or less quantity of unappropriated public land under the homestead laws. The applicant must make affdavit that he is entitled to the privileges of the homestead act and that the entry is made for his exclusive use and for actual settlement and cultivation, and must pay the legal fee and that part of the commission required, as follows: Fee for 160 acres, $10; commission, $4 to $12. Fee for eighty acres, $5: commission, $2 to $6. Within six months from the date of entry the settler must take up his residence upon the land and cultivate the same for five years continuously. At the expiration of this period, or within two years thereafter, proof of residence and cultivation must be established by four witnesses. The proof of settlement, with the certificate of the register of the land office, is forwarded to the general land office at Washington, from which a patent is issued.

Final proof cannot be made until the expiration of five years from date of entry, and must be made within seven years. The government recognizes no sale of a homestead claim. After the expiration of fourteen months from date of entry the law allows the homesteader to secure title to the tract, if so desired, by paying for it in cash and making proof of settlement, residence and cultivation for that period.

The law allows only one homestead privilege to any one person.

any one person.

THE HYDE-SWOPE MURDER CASE.

Col. Thomas H. Swope, a millionaire philanthropist of Independence, Mo., died under suspicious circumstances Oct. 3, 1909. He was attended by Dr. B. Clarke Hyde, husband of his niece. John G. Paxton, executor of Col. Swope's estate, and Mrs. Logan Swope, mother of Chrisman Swope, who died in December, 1909, instituted an investigation, which resulted in the arrest of Dr. Hyde on the charge of causing the death of Col. Swope. Chemical analysis of a portion of the colonel's stomach disclosed strychnine. It also appeared that Dr. Hyde had purchased from another physician an active typhoid culture. This was connected with an epidemic of typhoid fever which occurred in the Swope family in December, 1909. The trial of Dr. Hyde began April 11, 1910, in Kansas City, Mo., and ended May 16 in a verdcit of guility. He was sentenced to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary.

NONCONTIGUOUS POSSESSIONS OF THE UNITED STATES.

THE PHILIPPINE ISLANDS.

THE PHILIPPINE ISLANDS.

The Philippine islands were ceded to the United States by Spain Dec. 10, 1898. Maj.-Gen. Merritt was the first military governor. He was succeeded in August, 1899, by Maj.-Gen. E. S. Ottis, who in turn was followed in May, 1900, by Maj.-Gen Arthur MacArthur. The last named remained in office until July 4, 1901, when the military authority was transferred to Gen. A. B. Chaffee. By order of the president Gen. Chaffee was relieved of his duties as military governor July 4, 1902, and the office terminated. The Philippine commission was at the same time made the superior authority. Sept. 2 the islands were divided into three military departments, to be known as the department of Luzon, the department of Visayas and the department of Mindanao.

the department of visayas and the department of Mindanao.

July 1, 1902, congress passed an act providing temporarily for the government of the Philippines, providing for the election by popular vote, two years after a census of the islands had been taken years after a census of the islands had been taken and published, of delegates to an assembly, consisting of not more than 100 members nor less than fifty, apportioned among the provinces as nearly should, together with the Philippine commission appointed by the president of the United States, exercise the legislative power heretofore exercised by the commission alone, the members of the commission acting as an upper house and the elected assembly men as a lower house. The members of the assembly were to hold office two years and annual sessions of the legislature not exceeding ninety days in length were to be led.

AVALANCHES IN THE CASCADE AND SELKIRK MOUNTAINS.

Warm weather in the latter part of February and the early part of March, 1910, following a winter remarkable for its heavy snow, caused a number of disastrous avalanches in the Cascade mountains in Idahe and Washington. Feb. 27 the mining towns of Mace and Burke and the camp of the Carbonate Hill Mining company at Mulian, all in the northern part of Idaho, were overwhelmed by avalanches of snow and rock. Twelve persons were killed at Mace, four at Burke and three at Mulian. Two were killed at Dorsey, Idaho, Feb. 28. As many persons were reported missing, the number of actual fatalities was probably much larger than that given.

Early on the morning of March 1 two Great larger than that given.

Early on the morning of March 1 two Great Northern trains were buried by an avalanche on the west slope of the Cascades, near the small station of Wellington. One was a passenger and the other a mail train, and most of the victims were asneep in the coaches at the time the disaster occurred. They were hurled into a canyon 200 feet deep and covered with hundreds of tons of snow and rock. Only a few escaped, and these were severely injured. The dead, many of whom remained under the snow and wreckage for days, numbered 118. The property loss was $1,000,000.

March 2 the Oriental limited train No. 2, east bound, on the Great Northern road, ran into a landslide near Milan, a station twenty-two miles east of Spokane. The fireman was killed and a dozen persons were badly injured.

March 5, while a large number of workmen were clearing the line of the Canadian Pacific railroad of the debris of a snowslide in Rogers pass, near Glacier, at the summit of the Selkirk mountains, British Columbia, they were overwhemed by a second slide. Ninety-two lives were lost, the victime being carried down into the valley and buried under tons of snow.

BRITISH GENERAL ELECTIONS OF 1910.

Following the formal dissolution of the second parliament of King Edward VII., Jan. 10, 1910, election writs were issued to every constituency. election writs were issued to every constituency. Voting began almost immediately and continued through the greater part of the month, but the bulk of the polling took place Jan. 15, 17, 18 and 19. The campaign was an extremely hard-fought one, both of the leading parties exerting their utmost power to win. It had been expected that the chief issues would be the budget of 1909, with its radical methods of taxation, and the veto power of the house of lords in the matter of financial presidents but tariff reform was widely discussed. legislation, but tariff reform was widely discussed and at times seemed to be the dominant question of the hour. Home rule for Ireland, votes for women, naval and military progress, old-age pensions, work for the unemployed, socialism and many other matters also attracted more or less attention. With such a multiplicity of issues before it the British electorate divided almost evenly and failed to pass decisively upon any one of them. The liberals elected 275 members and the unionists 273. This left the liberal government in the power of the Irish nationalists, who secured eighty-two members, and the labor party, with forty members and it was freely predicted that the innistry would soon fall, necessitating another general election.

HOOKWORM-DISEASE COMMISSION.

Oct. 26, 1609, John D. Rockefeller gave $1,000,000 as a fund to be used in combating the ravages of the "hookworm" parasite in the southern states. The following gentlemen were designated to take charge of the work: John D. Rockefeller, Jr.: Dr. William H. Welch. Dr. Simon Flexner. Dr. Charles W. Stile, Dr. Edwin A. Alderman. Dr. David F. Houston. Prof. P. P. Claxton, J. Y. Joyner, Walter H. Page, Dr. H. B. Frissell, Frederick T. Gates, Starr J. Murphy.

According to the medical authorities the "hookworm" is a hairlike parasite causing a form of anamia prevalent especially among the poor people of the south. Although less than half an inch in length it operates on its victims' intestines in such a way as to sap their vitality. It has a complete and well-developed set of organs and the female has the capacity of laying thousands of eggs. The parasite was discovered by Dr. Charles W. Stile in 1902 in a Washington hospital.

INHERITANCE TAX IN ILLINOIS.

INHERITANCE TAX IN ILLINOIS.

The Illinois law taxing gifts, legacies and inheritances was passed by the legislature in 1895 and amended in 1901. Its constitutionality was consteated, but the United States Supreme court in a decision rendered Jan. 19, 1903, held it to be valid. Under the provisions of this law all property, real, personal and mixed, which shall pass by will or by the intestate laws of the state from any resident of the state or any one whose property is in this state to any person or persons is subject to a tax at the following rates: When the beneficial interests to any property or income therefrom shall pass to any father, mother, busband, wife, child, brother, sister, wife or widow of the son or the husband or the daughter, or any adopted child or children, or to any lineal descendant born in lawful wedlock, the rate of tax shall be $1 on every $100 of the clear market value of such property received by each person and at the same rate for any less amount, provided that any estate which may be valued at less than $20,000 shall not be subject to any such tax; and the tax is to be levied in the above cases only upon the excess of $20,000 received by each person.

When the property passes to any uncle, aunt, niece, nephew or any lineal descendant of the same the rate shall be $2 on every $100 in excess of $2,000.

In all other cases the rate shall be as follows:

of $2,000.

of $2,000.

In all other cases the rate shall be as follows:
On each and every $100 of the clear market value of all property and at the same rate for any less amount; on all estates of $10,000 and less, $3; on all estates of over $10,000 and not exceeding $20,000, $4; on all estates over $20,000 and not exceeding $50,000, $5, and all estates over $50,000, $6; provided, that an estate in the above case which may be valued at a less sum than $500 shall not be sublect to eav tax.

ject to any tax.

The total amount of inheritance taxes received by the state from Oct. 1, 1906, to Sept. 20, 1908, inclusive, was $782,743.49, of which Cook county paid $582,882.18.

DALAI LAMA OF TIBET DEPOSED BY CHINA.

Feb. 25, 1910, the Chinese foreign office issued a statement announcing that the government had deposed the dalai lama as head of the Tibetan government because he had deserted his capital, Lassa, following an attempt by him to organize a general revoit. It was alleged that he had circulated rumors to the effect that China intended to exterminate lamaism and that British trade was induring Tibet. For this reason China sent 2,009 the Chinese.

The empire of Austria and the kingdom of Hungary are sovereign states, each with its own constitution, legislative bodies and system of administration, co-ordinate in rank and mutually independent within the domain of home affairs. Foreign representation (embassies and consulates), the army and navy, customs (import and export duties), and the administration of the annexed provinces (Bosnia and Herzegovina) are, however, conducted in common. Legislation on matters affecting the interests of the dual monarchy as a whole is intrusted to the delegations—two bodies of sixty members each, chosen from among members of the two legislative chambers of Austria and Hungary respectively. The empire of Austria and the kingdom of Hun-

REVOLUTION IN PORTUGAL

King Manuel II. of Portugal was deposed by a revolution in Lisbon and a republican government established Oct. 3-4, 1910. The royal family escaped from the Necessidades palace to the Portuguese royal yacht, Amelic, and proceeded to Gibraltar, whence the king later was conveyed to a fanatical royalist named Santos, recently released from an insane asylum, who shot and mortally wounded Prof. Bombarda, whom he blamed for his detention. Bombarda was a well-known republican and his killing was denounced in the republican mewspaper, Seculo, as a political assassination, as the professor was one of the delegates recently elected to the cortes. Great excitement ensued, mobs were formed and encounters with the police occurred. The 1st battery of artillery selzed their officers, tore down the royal flag and distributed arms and ammunition among the people. Part of the 16th infantry also mutinled and fought against the troops that remained loyal to the king. The republican forces were getting the worst of it when three Portuguese cruisers in the Tagus, the Adamastor, the San Rafael and the Doun Fernando, came to their rescue, hoisting the royal palaces. The bombardment did little actual damage, but hastened the surrender of the royal-ists. The municipal guard and some of the other loyal soldiers held cut until Wednesday morning, Oct. 5, when they surrendered. In the course of the fighting several hundreds of persons were willed or wounded, but no accurate figures were published.

King Manuel, who a few hours before the revolt had banqueted President-elect Fonseca of Brazil.

King Manuel, who a few hours before the revolt had banqueted President-elect Fonseca of Brazil, escaped from the Necessidades palace and was con-veyed in an automobile to Mafra, a town about eighteen miles northwest of Lisbon. Here he was joined by the Queen Mother Amelie and the Dowager. Queen Maria Pla, who had fied from the Ajuda palace to Cintra. The Infante Alfonso, duke of Oporto, had embarked upon the royal yacht Amelie at Cascaes and brought the vessel around to Ericeira, a fishing village a few miles beyond Mafra. Here the royal fugitives embarked and went directly to Gibraitar and placed themselves under the protection of the British authorities. In the provinces, island possessions and colonies of Portugal the republicans assumed control almost without opposition and within a few days after the events in Lisbon the revolution was complete throughout the country. The people in the capital, who had taken part in the insurrection, disbanded voluntarily, order was quickly restored and business resumed. A provisional government was established with Theophile Braga, a poet and phikesopher, as president, and the following as members of his cabinet:

Minister of Justice—Alfonso Costa.

Minister of Justice—Alfonso Costa.
Minister of Foreign Affairs—Bernadino Machado.
Minister of Finance—Bazilio Telles.
Minister of Public Works—Antonio Luiz Gomes.
Minister of War—Col. Barreto.
Minister of War—Col. Barreto.
Minister of Marine—Amaro Azovado Gomes.
Minister of the Interlor—Antonio Almeida.
Civil Governor of Lisbon—Eusebio Leao.

One of the first acts of the new government was to order the expulsion of many of the religious orders in Portugal and to substitute public for clerical schools. The announced policy of the new regime was to promote decentralization in the government and colonial autonomy, to establish a system of secular education, to secure freedom of speech, to reform the finances and to separate the church and the state. It was also announced that governmental authority would be turned over to officials elected by the people within three months.

EPIDEMIC OF CHOLERA IN EUROPE.

Europe had an epidemic of cholera in 1910 more serious than any other of recent years. The disease claimed thousands of victims in Russia and many in Italy, but sporadic cases occurred in various parts of Austria-Hungary, Germany, Spain and England, while a few died on ships at sea. Several cases developed on vessels arriving in New York from Naples early in October.

Cholera has existed in Russia for two or three years, but in a mild form compared to the outbreak of 1910. Cases of the plague appeared early in the summer and as the season advanced they multiplied until in July, August and September they numbered between 150,000 and 200,000. Accurate statistics were not available for the entire empire, but such official figures as were made public showed that the mortality was very great. For example, the sanitary bureau reported that during the week of Aug. 7-13 there were 23,944 new cases and 10,723 deaths, bringing the total number of cases in Russia during the year up to that time to 112,985. The disease was then raging not only in St. Petersburg, Moscow and other large cities, but in nearly all the provinces. Sept. 26 the reports of the sanitary bureau showed a total for the season of 182,327 cases, with 83,613 deaths. With the advent of cooler weather in October the plague began to decline yent of cooler weather in October the plague began to decline.

Outside of Russia the most serious development of the disease was in Naples, Italy. The first cases were reported about the middle of August in Barl and other towns in southeastern and southern Italy. The epidemic spread rapidly and soon reached Naples, though its presence there was not officially admitted until Sept. 26. By the end of September there were a dozen deaths and a score or more of new cases daily in the southern capital. Thousands of people fled from the city and it was practically isolated.

In the course of the summer cases of cholera were reported from other points in Europe as follows: Trani, Barletta, Andria, Trinitapoli, Canosa, Molfetta, Spinazzola, Margherit, Savola, San Fernandino, Cerignola, Bitonto, province of Apulia, Leghorn, Turin, Rome and towns in Sicily, Italy: Spandsu, Freiburg, Berlin and Danzig, Germany; Budapest, Hungary, and London, England. Except in Italy, however, the disease was promptly checked.

REVOLUTIONS IN NICARAGUA.

Jose Santos Zelaya, the despotic president of Nicaragua, resigned Dec. 16, 1809, and Dr. Jose Madriz was elected to succeed him. Zelaya fied to Mexico in January, 1810, and thence went to Belgium and finally to Spain. Dr. Madriz was opposed by a large portion of the population and a revolution broke out almost immediately after he assumed office. assumed office. Warfare continued for several months, the leader of the rebels, Gen. Juan J. Estrada, gradually driving the government troops from one stronghold to another, until Aug. 21, when Madriz gave up the struggle. The following day Gen. Estrada was proclaimed president of Nicaragua. Dr. Madriz' fall was due in part to his unfriendly attitude toward the United States.

CARNEGIE INSTITUTION OF WASHINGTON.

The Carnegie institution was endowed by Andrew Carnegie with $10,000,000 and incorporated under the laws of the District of Columbia, Jan. 4, 1902. It was, however, deemed advisable to have it incorporated by act of congress, and this was effected May 18, 1904. Section 2 of the act specifies that the objects of the corporation shall be to encourage, in the broadest and most liberal manner, investigation, research and discovery, and the application of knowledge to the improvement of mankind. The projects considered by the institute are chiefly of three classes, namely:

First, large projects or departments of work. The Carnegie institution was endowed by Andrew

First, large projects or departments of work, whose execution requires continuous research by a corps of investigators during a series of years.

Secondly, minor projects, which may be carried out by individual experts in a limited period of

Thirdly, research associates and assistants, aid being given to a few investigators possessing exceptional abilities and opportunities for research

An annual appropriation is made for the purpose of publishing the results of investigations made under the auspices of the institution, and for certain works which would not otherwise be readily printed. These publications are not distributed gratis except to a limited list of the greater libraries of the world.

Dec. 4, 1907, Andrew Carnegie added $2,000,000 to the endowment of the institution, making the total 312.000.000.

The following table shows the gross sums allotted to large projects since the organization of the institution up to 1910:

Botanical research	$125,240.00
Economics and sociology	150,000.00
Experimental evolution	150,450.00

The total amount expended up to 1910 was $4,128,697.11.

FISH FURNITURE STORE FIRE.

Twelve lives were lost in a fire in the Fish Furniture company's store, 1906-1908 Wrbash avenue, Chicago, March 25, 1910. The victims of whom ten were women and two men, were trapped on the sixth floor and eleven were burned to death. One young woman either jumped or fell, struck a canopy in front of the store and was fatally injured, dying on the way to the hospital. The disaster was caused by the explosion of a can of gasoline, from which one of the employes was engaged in filling a number of patent cigar lighters on the fourth floor. There was a fire escape on the rear of the building by which several employes escaped, but there was none in front.

EARTHQUAKE IN SOUTHERN ITALY.

The southern part of Italy and a part of Tuscany and Venetia in the north were shaken by an earthquake about 3 o'clock on the morning of June 7, 1910. Nearly 100 persons were killed and many others were severely injured, while the loss to property was estimated at several million dollars. The largest number of casualties occurred at Calitri, where forty persons were killed and more than 100 injured. Half of the houses were destroyed. Great damage was done throughout destroyed. Great damage was done the whole of the province of Avellino.

STATISTICS OF CRIME IN THE UNITED STATES.

[From special reports by census bureau.]

NOTE—Owing to imperfect data the above figures are only approximately correct, but being based on the same method of enumeration they are of some value for comparative purposes. The true annual birth rate for the whole of the United States, as shown by the natural increase of population be-tween 1890 and 1900, is within 2 per cent either way of 35.1 per 1,000 of mean population.

DEATHS AND BIRTHS BY DIVISIONS OF TIME.

Assuming that the total population of the world is 1,600,000.000 and the average annual death rate 20 per 1,000 of population, the total number of deaths in a year is about 32,000,000. This is at the rate of 37,671 per day, 3,653 per hour, 61 per minute and 1 per second rate of $1,671 per day, 3,003 per nour, 61 per inhute and 1 per second.

As the population of the world increases by about 7,000,000 per year, the total births must be that number in excess of the deaths, or about 39,000,000. This is at the rate of 106.849 births per day, 4,452 per hour, 74 per minute and 1.2 per second.

Assuming that the population of the United States is $7.000.000 and the death rate 16 per 1,000, the total number of deaths in a year is 1,382.000. This is at the rate of 3.814 per day, 159 per hour and 2.6 per minute. With a birth rate of 34 per 1,000, the total number of births in a year in the United States will approximate 2,958,000. or at the rate of 8,104 per day, 388 per hour and 5.6 per minute.

EARTHQUAKE IN CARTAGO, COSTA RICA.

Fifteen hundred persons were killed and many others injured by an earthquake in Cartago, Costa Rica, Wednesday, May 5, 1910. The heaviest shock occurred at 7 o'clock in the evening, and no one had time to escape into the streets. Railroad and telegraph lines were broken and the electric lights fell, leaving the city in darkness. Every house and building in the city was destroyed, including four churches and the palace of the American peace court, the gift of Andrew Carneste. No medical aid could be obtained until the following day and great suffering was the result. It was the severest disaster of the kind in the history of Costa Rica.

LIVE STOCK OF THE WORLD (1910).

[From the Crop Reporter, Washington, D. C.]

Statistics of the world supply of live stock are incomplete; large areas of Africa are unrepresented; the number of animals in China, Persia, Afghanistan, Korea, Bolivia, Ecuador, Salvador and several less important countries is unknown;

bers ten year's ago. Keeping in view these deficincies in data, estimates of the approximate number of live stock in the world, so far as information, is available, are of interest.

Sheep seem to be the most numerous of the large animals of the world, with a total of about 580,000,000 head. Australia ranks first, with about 58,000,000; Argentina second, with 67,000,000; United States third, with about 57,000,000; Cluente States third, with about 57,000,000; Cluente States third, with about 57,000,000; United States third, with about 57,000,000; Itaripean Russia and Aslatic Turkey each have approximately 45,000,000; Great Pritain, with 27,000,000 in 1908, has more sheep in proportion to its area than any other important nation.

The number of cattle enumerated or estimated, about 430,000,000, although smaller than that of sheep, is much more important owing to their larger size. In total number of cattle, British India ranks first, with about 31,000,000 (including buffsloes and buffalo calves); the United States ranks second, with about 70,000,000; Russia third, with about 30,000,000, Germany about 20,000,000, Austria-Hungary 12,000,000 (including buffsloes about 30,000,000 (including buffsloes and buffalo calves); the United States in pre-eminer and Brazil each rave about 30,000,000 (including buffsloes), and the united kingdom 12,000,000. The proportion of the total number of cattle which is beef cattle, work cattle or milch cows has not been estimated. agtimated

The United States is pre-eminent as a swine-pro-The United States is pre-eminent as a swine-producing nation, being credited with approximately 50.000.000 head out of a world supply of less than 150.000,000. Germany ranks second, with about 22,-000,000; European Russia has about 11,000,000; France, 7,000,000; Austria had 5,000,000 in 1900 and Hungary 7,000,000 in 1895. No other country is credited with as many as 5,000,000.

Horses aggregate about 95,000,000; European Russia and the United States have almost an equal number, between 20,000,000 and 25,000,000 head; Argentina has about 3,000,000; Asiatic Russia is credited with about 7,000,000, Germany, 4,000,000, France 3,000,000, the united kingdom 2,000,000 Austria and Hungary each had about 2,000,000 in 1900 and 1895, respectively.

Of the 7,500,000 mules that are estimated in the world more than half are in the United States; no other country is credited with 1,000,000; Spain comes nearest with about 810,000 in 1907.

The number of asses in the world is estimated to be between 8,000,000 and 9,000,000; Asiatic Turkey is credited with about 2,500,000; 1,300,000 were credited to British India in 1907; 850,000 to Italy in 1908, and 770,000 to Spain in 1907.

Nearly 100,000,000 goats are estimated in the various countries of the world; by far the largest number are in British India, nearly 30,000,000; Asiatic Turkey is credited with 9,000,000, the Cape of Good Hope with nearly 9,000,000. Algeria about 1,000,000. Mexico 4,000,000 and Argentina 3,000,000. (in 1907).

About 15,000,000 buffaloes were reported in British India in 1907, over 2,500,000 in Dutch East Indies in 1905; minor countries bring the total number estimated to over 21,000,000.

The approximate number of camels in important countries, so far as estimates can be made, is: Asiatic Russia, 700.000; British India, 450.000; Euronean Russia, 225.000 Algeria, 200.000; Tunis, 150.000; Sudan (Anglo-Egyptian, number assessed for tribute and tax in 1905), 132.000; Fgypt, 40.000 Of the 900.000 leindeer reported from various countries, 350.000 were in Russia, 230.000 were in Sweden, 140 000 in Finland (in 1906) and 110.000 in Norway (1900). UNITED STATES PASSPORT REGULATIONS.

Passports are issued to citizens of the United States upon application to the state department in Washington. The application must be accompanied by an affidavit, attested by a notary public or other officer empowered to administer oaths stating that the applicant is a citizen and giving the place of birth and age, and it must be accompanied by the certificate of one other citizen to whom he is personally known that the declaration made by the applicant is true. The application must also be accompanied by a description of the person, particularly as to age, height, complexion, forehead, eyes, nose, mouth, chin, hair and face.

Blank forms are furnished by the state department upon application. The fee for each passport is $1. Citizens traveling abroad may also in some cases obtain passports by applying to United States ambassadors and ministers. Where any person has made a declaration of intention to become a citizen of the United States and has resided in the United States for three years a passport valid for six nonths may be issued to him. This passport is not renewable and does not entitle the holder to the protection of this government in the country of which he was originally a citizen.

OLD-AGE PENSIONS AND INDUSTRIAL INSURANCE.

IN THE UNITED STATES.

In his book on "Industrial Insurance in the United States," Prof. Charles R. Henderson of the University of Chicago summarizes the situation in regard to old-age pensions in this country as follows:

tion in regard to old-age pensions in this country as follows:

'A few of the trade unions have begun to establish funds for old-age retirement benefits. The fraternal societies exhibit a serious defect at this reint. Under their system they can carry life insurance only to the region of old age and then the 'brother' must care for himself, a very inconsistent kind of fraternity, yet inseparable from present methods. The Mutualists of France have gone much farther in meeting this difficulty by establishing funds for old age and invalidism. Some of the railroad corporations, and even private firms, have founded funds for old-age pensions, and this movement seems to be growing in this country. Cities have ension for teachers. The nation and the states have made the old age of veterans comfortable. It is perfectly clear that the common laborers of cities can never on present wages provide for old age without help of employers and the public; the outlook is simply hopeless. The income of the workingmen of cities is too small and too irregular to warrant thy unsided attempt to provide for the last period of life."

GOVERNMENT PENSIONS.

GOVERNMENT PENSIONS.

In the ordinary service of the United States retiring pensions are confined to federal judges and the officers of the army and navy. The former at the age of 70, after ten years' service, may retire on full pay. The maximum pay on the retired list for officers of the army and navy is 75 per cent of the active pay of their respective ranks. The compulsory age of retirement in the army is 64 years and in the navy 62. The pensions paid to survivors of the civil and other wars are for service, disability, etc., and are not based on age or poverty, though they have the general effect of old-age pensions.

MUNICIPAL EMPLICARY

MUNICIPAL EMPLOYES' FUNDS.

MUNICIPAL EMPLOYES' FUNDS.

Pension funds, authorized by legislative acts, have been established in many cities of the United States for certain classes of employes, such as policemen, firemen, teachers and public library attendants and help. These as a rule are maintained either by the reteution of a certain percentage of the employes' salary or wages or by the setting aside for them of the proceeds of certain licenses and fines. From fifteen to iwenty-five years of service are required, and the age of retirement, for police and firemen, is 50 years. The amount paid as a pension is usually half of the monthly or annual salary received at the time of retirement, though in some cases a maximum limit is placed.

RALBOAD PENSION SYSTEMS.

RAILROAD PENSION SYSTEMS.

Apart from the death and temporary or permanent disability funds established by most of the railroad cornorations of the United States, a number of them have organized old-age or superannuation pension systems. These are controlled entirely by the companies, the employes not contributing to them. No legal right to retention in the service or to a pension allowance is conferred. The pensions in most cases are based on age and length of service, monthly payments for life being made usually on the basis of 1 per cent of the average monthly pay for the ten years next preceding retirement for each year of service. Thus, if a man is retired after twenty years of service and his average pay for the last ten years was $100 a month, his monthly allowance will be $20. In most of the systems pensions for superannuation are granted for employes retired at 65 to 70 years of age, after from ten to twenty years of service, and for incapacitation, to employes from 60 to 69 years of age, with like service. The usual maximum age for entering the service of the railroads is 45 years. Pensioners are ordinarily allowed to engage in gainful occupations after their retirement. The following table will show the years of service required, the age of retirement and the per cent of the average monthly pay for the last ten years for each year of service allowed as a pension by certain railroad companies:

LABOR UNION PENSIONS.

In 1909 four large labor organizations had super-annuation benefit systems in operation and several annuation benefit cystems in operation and several other unions had provided for similar systems to became operative at a future date. Those already paying old-age benefits were the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners, Amalgamated Society of Freineers, Granite Cutters' International association and the International Typographical union.

In the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Johners any ordinary member who is 50 years of age and incapable of earning the usual amount the base of twenty-five years con-

In the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners any ordinary member who is 50 years of age and lineapable of earning the usual amount of wages, if he has been twenty-five years continuously in the society, is allowed $2.50 per week for life; any member who has been in the society cortinuously for eighteen years is allowed $2.45 per week for life.

In the Amalgamated Society of Engineers, a British society with branches in the United States, a member to become entitled to superannuation beneft; must be 55 years of age and have been a member of the society twenty-five years. The amount of benefit is based on the class of membership as follows: Full members, highest class, forty or more years of membership, $2.70 per week; third class, thirty-gars of membership, $2.70 per week; third class, thirty-gars of membership, $2.40 per week; fourth class, twenty-five years of membership, $2.10 per week. In the machinist section the benefits range from $1.50 to $2.40 per week, according to class and service.

In the Granite Cutters' International Association of Aniecica any member reaching the age of 62 years who has been a member twenty years continuously, and in good standing during the ten years before reaching the age of 62 is entitled to a superannuation benefit of $10 per month for six months in each year thereafter, payments to begin with Nev. 1 of each year.

The International Typographical union began paying old-age persions in August, 1998. Any member of the union 60 years of age, in good standing for twenty years, who finds it impossible to secure sustaining munloyment, may receive $4 per week, payable monthly. The union supports a home for aged and invalid printers in Colorado Springs, Col. ESTABLISHMENT FUNDS.

Funds providing for old-age pensions have been instituted in a number of local industrial establishments, either by the companies or the employes. In three of the funds investigated in 1909 by the United States labor commissioner the age of eligibility to benefits is as foliows: In the first, 70 years; in the second, 65 years with twenty-five years of service, and in the third, 70 years with twenty-five years of service, or, if incapacitated, 65 years with twenty-five years of service, or, if incapacitated, 66 years with twenty-five years of service, or with fifteen years of service if holding membership in the benefit fund maintained in the establishment. The benefit payments of the funds are as follows: In the first, a lump sum not to exceed $500 from rny surplus over $3,000, at the discretion of the managing board; in the second, $10 per month for life; in the third, $6 per week for life, the establishment, however, reserving the right to reduce payments under certain conditions.

The First National bank of Chicago has a bank pension fund. The age when any officer or employe may receive a pension is determined by the bank, but as a rule pensions are not granted until after fifteen years of service in the bank and the age of 80 years has been reached. Members of the fund are required to contribute 3 per cent of their salaries. The pension allowed is on the basis of one-fiftieth of the salary for each year at the age of superannuation, the maximum pensions being, however, subject to limitations.

The Western Telectric company in 1906 set aside a fund of $400.090 for pensions. Employes who have reached the age of $60, and have been in the service of the company continuously for twenty years, are eligible to pensions. The rate of pay-service of the company continuously for twenty years, are eligible to pensions. The rate of payment for age is conditioned upon the number of years the employe has been in the active service of the company and the amount of his average wages per year for the ten years preceding retirement. For each year of active service the annual rate is 1 per cent of the average annual pay during the ten years before retirement. The pension is for life. All employes, engaged in any capacity, are

(a) All employes, engaged in any capacity, and eligible to pensions.

(b) All male employes who shall have reached the age of 65 years, and have been twenty or more years in the service, may at their own request, or at the discretion of the pension board, he retired from active service and become eligible to a pension.

pension.

(c) All male employes who have been twenty or more years in the service shall be retired at the age of 70 years, unless at the discretion of the pension board some later date be fixed for such relirement. Persons occupying executive positions are exempt from the maximum age limit.

Woman employes are eligible to pensions at the age of 50 or 60 on the same conditions as man emploves.

The sums which the pension board may authorise to be paid monthly to employes at the retired age limit shall be as follows: For each year of active service an allowance of 1 per cent of the average annual pay during the ten years next preceding retirement, but no pension shall exceed $100 a month, or be less than $18 a month. Pension allowances are nonassignable. Pensioners may engage in any lusiness not prejudicial to the interests of the company. An illustration of how pensions are computed follows: If the average pay for the last ten years of active service equals $600, and if the service has been continuous for twenty-five years, the pension would be 25 per cent of $500, or $150 rer year. or $12.50 per month. Since the minimum pension has been fixed at $18 per month, then to this regular percentage $5.50 would be added, making the minimum of $18.

The Carnegie foundation, established by Andrew Carnegie in 1905, provides old-age pensions for teachers in the higher institutions of learning. Length of service and disability are taken into consideration as well as age. The average allowance is about $1.500. (See "The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching" on another page in this volume.)

In 1991 Andrew Carnegie established a fund providing for accident and death benefits and pension allewances for employes of the Carnegie Steel company and its constituent companies, now included in the United States Steel corporation. Any employe who has reached the age of 60 years and has been at least fifteen years continuously in the service of the company and is incapacitated for further service, may be granted a pension by the board of trustees of the fund. Allowances are paid monthly for life on the following basis: For each year of service.

OLD-AGE PENSIONS IN MASSACHUSETTS.

Savings banks incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts are permitted to establish life insurance and annuity departments. These issue five general forms of policies, as follows:

1. Straight life policy, on which premiums cease

1. Straight life policy, on which premiums cease at age of 75.
2. Endowment policy, maturing at age of 65.
3. Endowment policy, maturing in twenty years.
4. Insurance and annuity policy. The full amount of insurance continues to the age of 65 at which time the payment of the premium ceases, the annuity beginning at the age of 65 and continuing throughout life. The insurance continues after the annuity begins, but is reduced by the amount of annuity paid until the payments on the annuity equal the full ancunt of the insurance, when the insurance coases and the annuity continues. The annuity clause of the policy provides for an annuity equal (a) to one-fifth of the amount of the insurance.

The premium rates are proportionstely the same on all forms of policies. The premiums vary according to ages and are paid monthly. In old-age policies they are greater for women than for men. The maximum annuity that may be taken by a person in any one bank is $200, but policies may be taken by a person in two or more banks.

Savings banks in Massachusetts have no stockholders. Net profits in the banking department are divided among the depositors and all policies is sued by the insurance department participate in dividends from the profits of that department.

IN FOREIGN COUNTRIES. UNITED KINGDOM.

Unider the terms of the old-age pension act of Aug. 1, 1908, every person, married or single, who has attained the age of 70 years, who is and has been for twenty years a British subject resident in the united kingdom and whose yearly income does not exceed £31 10s ($153.37), is entitled to a pension. Idlers, lunatics in asylums and those who have been convicts in prison within ten years are excluded. The pension is based upon the private income of the recipient in such manner that his total income, supplemented by the pension, will trange from 10 to 13 shillings ($2.40 to $3.12) er week. The law gives 5 shillings to those whose incomes are £21 (190.27) or less per year; 4 shillings (96 cents) to those whose incomes reach £23 128 50 ($115); 3 shillings (72 cents) to those with incomes of £26 5s ($127.82); 2 shillings (48 cents) to those with incomes of £28 178 6d ($130.56) and shilling (24 cents) to those with incomes of £31 10s ($15.37).

Local pension committees are appointed by the borough councils and county councils, and to these committees the first applications are made. They are then referred to pension officers appointed by the treasury department and if the recommendations agree the pension is issued. Of the postotice savings banks, including investments in stock, there were 15,239 registered, with a membership of 11,018,251 and deposits amounting to $832,185,489. Altogether there were 15,480 certificated and postotice savings banks, with 12,889,765 depositors and $1,215,489,921 deposits.

The total number of societies and savings banks in operation in the united kingdom on Dec. 31, 1999, was 50,734, whose members and depositors numbered 32,079,112 and whose funds deposited amounted to $2,189,592,028.

GERMANY.

Workmen's insurence laws, such as the sick-benefit law and the accident-insurance law, have existed in Germany for about a quarter of a century. The first old-age pension law was passed in 1889 and was amended in 1899. The insurance of all workmen is compulsory, employer and employe being obliged to pay fixed premiums, as established by law, and the government contributing a certain amount. From 1885 to 1907 the employers contributed $973,300,000, the workmen $851,587,500 and the government $122,682,500; total, $1,946,550,000. In 1906 out of every 1,000 day laborers 883 were protected by sick benefit, all sgainst accident and $59 against old age and disability.

out of every 1,000 day laborers 863 were protected by sick benefit, all sgainst accident and 859 against old age and disability.

The most extensive of the insurance laws is the invalid and old-age pension. There are thirty-one offices for managing this department, employing 3,800 clerks. In 1607, 14,300,000 persons were protected by the invalid and old-age pension, the increase since 1900 being about 10 per cunt. In 1907, 44,1174,000 was paid as pensions and benefits, as compared with $63,379,400 for sickness and $35,771,400 for accidents. Since 1900 the indemnities have almost doubled. The premiums of the workmen amounted to about $19,516,000 or somewhat more than one-half of the indemnities. The general administration cost about $2,380,000, or approximately $1.67 per insured person. The fund increased from $201,110,000 in 1900 to $334,152,000 in 1909, which is about $23.80 per capita insured. This great sum of money is placed out, principally in loans to vilages and private persons, in supporting the credit of agricultural districts, and in erecting good, sanitary workmen's dwellings, bathhouses, sanitariums and similar institutions. The mean rate of interest on the money so invested has varied since 1900 from 3.53 to 3.55 per cent. At the beginning of 1909 the statistics showed that $88,086 invalid, 108,637 old-age and 19,087 sick pensions would have to be paid during that year. Since 1907 the number of invalid pensions has risen from about 305,000 to 886,086, but, owing to the efficacy of this department of insurance, the strain on the old-age pension having decreased from 203,955 in 1896 to 108,637 in 1909.

The old-age pension is given on the completion of the 70th year of the workman's age after contributions have been paid for 1,200 weeks. The contributions are paid half by the workmen and half by the employers, while the government grants a subsidy of $12.50 annually toward each pension.

half by the employers, while the government grants a subsidy of $12.50 annually toward each pension. The weekly contribution ranges from 14 pfennig (3½ cents) as week. The workmen are divided into five classes according to the amount of waces received, those receiving the lowest wages being in class 1 and those getting the highest in class 5. The annual pension runs from $40 in class 1 to $70 in class 5.

FRANCE.

The French senate, March 22, 1910, passed the workmen's pension bill, which had been before the chamber for more than four years and had been agreed to by the deputies. The law affects about 17,000,000 persons, including all workers, railroed employes, miners rud seamen for whom pensions had previously been arranged. Practically the new pressure extended the all-new pension system set. may previously over arranged. Fractically the new measure extended the old-age pension system, ap-plicable to state employes, to all the laborers of France. For the creation of the pension fund con-tributions from thee sources are provided.

Experts differ as to what the state's contribution will be, but the generally accepted figure is $36,000,000 for the first year, the amount decreasing until the scaeme works normally, when it will be about $25,000,000.

Under an not passed in 1908 invalid and old-age pensions are paid at such rates as the commissioner of pensions deems sufficient, but the amount must not exceed $130 a year, nor must the recipient's income, including the pension, amount to more than $260 a year. Old-age pensions are paid to persons who are at least 65 years of age (60 for women) and have lived in Australia twenty-live years of more. years or more. Invalid pensions are granted to persons who have lived in Australia at least five years, have become incapacitated and are without sufficient means of support. The labor party now in power proposes to lower the age of female pensioners to 55 years. The present annual expenditure on old-age pensions is about $7.500.000.

Prior to the federal act the various states of the commonwealth had old-age pensions of their own. In New South Wules a pension of $130 a year was granted to every person more than 65 years of age or more than 60 if incapacitated from earning a living by injury or infirmity. The amount of the pension was diminished by $1 for every $5 of income from other sources and by $1 for every $5 of property possessed. In 1906-1907 the pensioners received $2,222,000.

In Victoria pensions were granted to persons more than 65 years of age or under that age if incapacitated from work by an unhealthy or hazard-ous occupation. The amount was fixed by the state treasurer, the maximum being $2.50 a week to pensioners more than 65 years old.

NEW ZEALAND.

NEW ZEALAND.

The law of 1898, amended in 1905 and consolidated in 1908, gives a pension of $130 a year to every needy and worthy applicant over 65 years of age, who is not an allen or an Asiatic. The pensioners in 1909 numbered 14,396 and the total yearly payment was $1,766,700. The average pension was $122.75. Pensions are paid out of state funds.

SPAIN.

In 1909 Spain 'magurated a national insurance scheme for old-age pensions based on the Beigian system. It provides for a deposit of 5 centimes (less than one cent) daily from the age of 10 to 65 years to produce after maturity a guaranteed pension of 1 pesets (20 cents) daily, increased deposits furrishing increased pensions. Pensioners are to share in any surplus due to decreased mortality or increased profits from investments. In the event of death the sums paid in are to be refunded to the leirs. The state pays all expenses of administration. It is estimated that in ten years there will be 1,000,000 members with a distribution of $800,000 annually.

DENMARK.

Pensions are paid to men and women more than 60 years of age, who have lived in Denmark five years or more, are of good character and are in need of assistance. This may be in cash or residence in hospital, but it must be sufficient for maintenance and for attendance in case of lilness. The pension is paid by the district in which the recipient lives, haif of it being refunded by the state. In the year ending March 31, 1998, 71,185 persons where retieved at a cost of $2,446,000. Persons who receive private assistance amounting to $27 a year or more are not allowed pensions. Pensions are paid to men and women more than

BELGIUM.

Belgium has a voluntary pension or insurance system open to all citizens. The premiums paid by the insured range from $19.20 to $96 a year and the pensions begin at the 55th to the 56th year, the amount varying with the age at the first payment, but going up to $240 a year. Invalid pensions are paid to those who become incapacitated before the pension age arrives. The premiums are paid into a state fund, and a state subsidy of one-third of the pension is added. The fund in 1906 paids $2.77 pensions, the average of each pension Leing $39.60.

ITALY.

Invalid and old-oge pensions in Italy are voluntary, but are regulated by law. It is virtually a workmen's insurance system under state control. Premiums of $1.20 to $19.20 a year are paid by the insured, the state adding a subsidy of $2.40 or more to each pension. Old-age pensions are given to those workers over 60 years of age who have paid premiums twenty-five years at a minimum rate of $24 a year. rate of $24 a year.

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.

Austria has an obligatory old-age pension law for miners, but for no other class of workers. Half of the premiums are paid by the employes and half by the employers. About 150,000 men are affected by the law. Hungary has a similar law applicable to about 100,000 miners. The invalid pensions range from $25 to $60 a year.

DEATH OF MARK TWAIN.

Samuel Langhorne Clemens, widely known as "Mark Twain." author of "Innocents Abroad." "Tom Sawyer." "Huckleberry Finn" and many other popular stories of a humorous character, died at "Stormfield." his home, in Redding, Conn. Thursday, April 21, 1910. The immediate cause of his death was angina pectoris, but his health had been greatly affected by the passing away of his invalid daughter. Jean, and of his friends. H. H. Rogers, W. M. Laffan and R. W. Gilder. He spent a part of the winter in Bermuda, but returned home April 14 in a weakened condition. The funeral services were held in the Brick Presbyterian church in New York, N. Y., April 23, the Rev. Dr. Herry Van Dyke making the address. The interment was at Elmira, N. Y., where Mrs. Clemens and Jaughters, Susan and Jean, and infant son, Langhorner also buried. Mr. Clemens left a fortune, estimated at $1,000,000, to his only surviving child, Mrs. Ossip Gabrilowitsch. The author was 74 years old at the time of his death.

BIRD RESERVATIONS IN THE UNITED STATES.

For the purpose of preserving the native wild birds of the country from destruction, the United States in 1903 insugurated the plan of setting aside regions that contain important colonies of breeding birds as bird reservations or "refuges." The first reserve created was that including Pelican Island, Florida, containing a colony of brown pelicans. Since then many other reserves have been established by executive order in various parts of the union. The localities set aside are under the supervision of the secretary of agriculture and of wardens appointed by him, one warden usually caring for all the reservations within a state. Un-

ARCTIC AND ANTARCTIC EXPLORATION.

The controversy which arose in the fall of 1909 as to whom should be given the credit of having first reached the north pole, Commander Robert E. Peary or Dr. Frederick A. Cook, was definitely settled in 1910 ir favor of the former. Late in December, 1909, the University of Copenhagen, to which Dr. Cook, through his agents, had submitted some documents relating to his alleged discovery of the north pole announced the following formal of the north pole, announced the following formal

"The documents handed the university for examination do not contain observations and information which can be regarded as proof that Dr. Cook reached the north pole on his recent expedition."

Even before this verdict was made public Dr. Cook had mysteriously disappeared, much to the disappointment and chagrin of many persons who still had faith in his integrity. As week after week and month after month elapsed without word from and month after month elapsed without word from him the convection became settled that he had attempted to carry out a colossal fraud on the public, and, failing, did not have the courage to face the consequences. His presence in Europe and in Chile, South America, was reported on apparently good authority in January and February, 1910, and late in the summer it was rumored that he had secured a steamer and departed for North Greenland to secure the scientific in-ruary, 1910, and late in the summer it was rumored that he had secured a steamer and departed for North Greenland to secure be scientific instruments and notebooks which he claimed to have left there on his return from the pole.

In the meantime Commander Peury, who had made enemies by his denunciation of Dr. Cook's fraudulent claims, was restored to public favor and became the recipient of many nonors from scientific and other bodies. As noted in the last issue of The Daily News Almanac and Year-Book, the National Geographics Society of America conferred on him a special gold medal for having "reached the north pole, the goal sought for centuries." Jan. 26, 1910, the Geographic society of Chicago gave a banquet in his honor and presented him with the Helen Culver medal, Formander Peary the King Humbert gold medal, soft the Italian Geographical society awarded Commander Peary the King Humbert gold medal, soft the Italian Geographical society presented him with the special gold medal of the organization and welcomed him as "the first and only human being who ever led a party of his fellow creatures to a pole of the earth." Similar honorwere conferred upon the explorer by other societies.

In the United States senate, Feb. 9, a bill was In the United States senate, reb. 9, a bill was unanimously passed adding Peary's name to the list of rear-admirals in the navy and providing for his immediate retirement with the highest pay received by one of the rank. In the house committee on naval affairs the proposition was, however, voted down and no further action was taken.

taken. Commander Peary offered a purse of $10,000 to pay part of the expenses of an American exploring expedition to the antarctic regions under the auspices of the National Geographic society, and subscriptions were made by many members of that organization. It was proposed to use the Rousevelt steamer and the Peary equipment in the venture, which, bowever, was finally abandoned.

AMUNDSEN EXPEDITION.

Capt. Roald Amundsen, discoverer of the northwest passage, left Norway in August, 1910, on the arctic steamer Fram for occanographic work on the Atlantic coast of America. His original plan was to proceed to San Francisco in 1911, take on a new crew and outlit and continue on to the Arctic occan via Berling strait. This programme was later extended so as to include an attempt to reach the south pole and to do general exploration work in the Antarctic regions, as he felt that popular interest in the northern regions had been diminished by Commander Peary's discovery of the north pole. However, he did not expect to give up his trip to the north, but to make it about a year later than originally intended. His exact plans for the southward trip were not male public, beyond the fact that his party was to be divided and that only a tew would undertake the polar journey.

THE CHARCOT EXPEDITION.

THE CHARCOT EXPEDITION.

The French antarctic expedition headed by Dr. Jean M. Charcot, which sailed from Havre Aug. 16, 1908, and from Punta Arenas, Chile, Dec. 10, the same year, returned early in February, 1910. The party, which used the steamer Fourquoi Pass. rached 70 degrees south, lougitude 126 degrees west. It made no attempt to reach the pole but contented itself with exploring the region in the vicinity of Adelaide island and Alexander land directly south from Punta Arenas. A hydrographic chart of the eastern side of Adelaide island was made and it was found that the island was made and it was found that the island was seventy miles long instead of only seven, as had been reported. Much new land was cased to the provided of the pr

BRITISH ANTARCTIC EXPEDITION.

A new British antarctic expedition under command of Capt. R. F. Scott left Cardiff on the steamship Terra Nova for the south polar regions June !15, 1910. The plan, as outlined by Capt Scott, was to take on petrol for motor sledges, forage for ponies, frozen mutton, motor sledges, forage for ponies, frozen mutton, motor sledges, twenty ponies and thirty dogs at Lyttleton, New Zcaland, and to reach McMurdo sound, South Victoria land, about the end of December. Here a but, provisions and equipment for a western party were to be landed. This party will include twenty-two to twenty-five persons, who will start south at the end of January, 1911, to lay depots. At the same time the Terra Nova will sail east to land the eastern party on King Edward VII. land. Six or seven men will probably be left here to explore this unknown territory. In the spring the steam er will return to New Zealand. After the southern depots have been laid, Capt. Scott will start, probably in October, 1911, toward the south polic, which he hopes to reach in December. Lieut. E. G. B. Evans, E. N., will be second in command and Lieut. Victor Campbell will be in command and Lieut. Victor Campbell will be in command and artist, will be in charge of the scientific staff. Others members of the expedition are F. Griffith Taylor-and W. H. Thompson, geologist; E. W. Nelson and D. G. Lillie, biologists; Dr. G. C. Simpson, meteorologist; O. S. Wright, Chemist; Lieut. H. H. Pennell and Lieut. H. & Bowers, surveyors; Drs. G. M. Levick and E. L. Atkinson, surgeons. The methods of travel will be practically the same as those adopted by Lieut. British and the surveyors and the methods of travel will be practically the same as those adopted by Lieut. Employed the science of the selection when he reached latitude 88 degrees 23 minutes south in 1908-1909.

OTHER ANTAROTIO EXPEDITIONS.

Exploring expeditions to the antarctic regions were planned in 1910 by Lieut. Shirase of the Japanese army, who proposed to make his base of operations on King Edward VII. land, and by Licut. Filchner of Germany, whose plan was to start from a base in the Weddell sea on the side of the antarctic area opposite to that which has been the scene of British operations.

WEATHER FORECASTS AND SIGNALS.

The operations of the weather bureau of the department of agriculture are based on observations of the weather taken at about 200 observatories throughout the United States at the same moment of time and telegraphed daily to Washington, D. C., and to other important cities. These observations, comprising barometric pressure, temperature, precipitation, winds and clouds, are entered upon outline charts of the United States by means of symbols, forming the "daily weather map," from which the forecasts are made. These forecasts are issued every day for every state in the union, and whenever necessary special warnings are sent out of storms, frosts, cold waves, heavy snows and floods. In addition to the main office in Washington, there are subordinate forecast centers Washington, there are subordinate forecast centers in Chicago, New Orleans, Denver, San Francisco and Portland, Ore. Weather forecasts for a week in advance are now sent out from Washington and published each Monday.

The forecasts are first telegraphed to about 2.300 principal distributing points, whence they are further disseminated by telegraph, telephone and through the mail by means of forecast cards, rural free-delivery slips and newspapers. The number of through the mail by means of forecast cards, rural free-delivery slips and newspapers. The number of postoffices or addresses receiving the forecasts by weather maps and cards in 1908 was 76,154, and by rural free-felivery slips, 58,008. It is estimated that the total number of persons in the United States to whom the weather forecasts are available is more than 4,000,000.

THE PAN-AMERICAN UNION.

The Pan-American union was established upon the recommendation of the first international American conference in 1890 for the jumpose of numerican conference in 1890 for the jumpose of numerican lemisphere. Its duties have been broadened since then and it is now a sort of clearing house of information concerning the nations of North, South and Central America. It publishes a monthly bulletin in which are given the latest official data concerning the resources, commerce and other features of the republics. The officers of the minon occupy a fine building at the corner of 17th street and Potonne park in Washington, D. C. The structure, which was built with money given by Andrew Carnegie, was dedicated April 26, 1910. Following are the officers:

Director-General-John Barrett,
Assistant Director-Francisco J. Yanes.
Chief Statistician-William C. Wells.
Chief Clerk-Franklin Adams.
Chief Translator-Emillo M. Amores.
Librarian-Churles B. Babcock.

THERMOMETERS COMPARED.

There are three kinds of thermometers, with varying scales, in general use throughout the world the Fahrenhelt. Reaumur and centigrade. The freezing and boiling points on their scales compare as follows:

Thermometer.	Freezing pt.	Boiling pt.
Fahrenheit	32 degrees	212 degrees
Reaumur	zero	80 degrees
Centigrade	zero	100 degrees

The degrees on one scale are reduced to their equivalents on another by these formulas:
Fahrenheit to Reaumur—Subtract 32, multiply by Fahrenheit to Centigrade-Subtract 32, multiply by five-ninths.

Reaumur to Fahrenheit-Multiply by nine-fourths, add 32. Reaumur to Centigrade-Multiply by five-fourths.

Centigrade to Fahrenheit-Multiply by nine-fifths, add 32. Centigrade to Reaumur-Multiply by four-fifths.

FEDERAL CENSUS OF RELIGIOUS BODIES (1906),

There were in the United States in 1906, the period of the fifth United States census of the religious bodies in this country, according to census bulletin No. 103, issued in September, 1909, 186 religious denominations, 212,230 local religious organizations, 32,936,445 church members and $1,257,575,867 invested in church edifices.

MEMBERSHIP BY SEX.

MEMBERSHIP BY SEX.

The census of 1906 collected for the first time statistics of the membership by sex. Of the total number of members returned by sex, 43.1 per cent were male and 56.9 per cent female. For the protestant bodies as a whole the difference was greater, 39.3 per cent being male and 60.7 per cent female. For the Roman catholic church the membership was nearly equally divided between the sexes, 49.3 per cent being male and 50.7 per cent female. This is true also for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints. which reports 48.6 per cent male. true also for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, which reports 48.8 per cent male. The largest percentage of males shown for any denomi-nation was that for the Greek Orthodox church, 93.9, which is due to the fact that practically all the Greek Immigrants have been males. The Luth-eran bodies showed 46.1 per cent males. Disciples, 40 per cent; Methodist and Baptist bodies, 38.5 per cent each; Presbytetian bodies, 37.9 per cent, and Protestant Episcopal church, 35.5 per cent. The denominations showing the smallest percentage of males were the Christian Scientists, 27.6, and the Shakers, 21.3. Shakers, 21.3.

Kokomo. Ind. Commanderies have been established in twentyone states. Total membership about 1,400.

The order is a military organization with patriotic objects, having for its scope the period of American history since national independence. It stands for the needed and honorable principle of national defense against foreign aggression. The principal feature of the order is the perpetuating of the names, as well as the services, of commissioned officers who served in either the war of the revolution, the war with Tripoli, the war of 1812, the Mexican war or the war with Spain and all future campaigns, recognized by the United States government as war with foreign powers. Veteran companionship is conferred upon such officers and hereditary companionship upon their direct lineal descendants in the male line. rect lineal descendants in the male line.

DESTRUCTIVE FOREST FIRES IN 1910.

Forest fires involving the loss of many lives and the destruction of much property occurred in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, Washington, Manitoba and British Columbia in 1910. As early as May 11 fires in northern Wisconsin and Minnesota destroyed thousands of acres of standing timber. They continued through June and July and many towns had narrow escapes from being wiped out. The village of Heineman, Wis., was the only one, however, that met that fate. In British Columbia the aggregate loss from forest fires in July was not less than $2,000,000.

In the second and third weeks of August great

In the second and third weeks of August great forest fires raged in northern Idaho, western Montana and eastern Oregon and Washington. Many forest rangers, settlers and villagers were trapped by the flames and perished, but the exact number will probably never be known. According to figures compiled in Spokane, Wash., Aug. 25, the victims then numbered 203. They were distributed as follows: United States fire fighters in and near Idano, 86; Montana, deaths, 13; at Newport, Wash., 3; at Wallace, Idaho, 4; near Avery, Idaho, setters, 47; at Mullen, Idaho, 2; at Spokane, Wash., 1; on Big Creek, Idaho, 47. No attempt was made to estimate the financial loss, but I certainly amounted to many millions of dollars in timber alone.

In the Bainy river district, on both sides of the boundary line between Minnesota and Manitoba, forest fires devastated a large district during the first week in October. The flames were fanned by a gale and probably about 109 farmers and villagers were burned to death, while many more were made totally destitute. The villages of Beaudette and Spooner and several large sawmills were burned. Millions of dollars' worth of timber was destroyed.

BASEBALL THROWING RECORD.

The world's record for the long-distance throwing of a baseball was broken at Cincinnati, O., Oct. 10, 1910, when Sheldon Lejeune of the Evansville (Ind.) club, Central league, threw the sphere 426 feet 64, inches. The old record, made in Brooklyn, N. 7., Oct. 15, 1872, by John Haftfeld, was 400 feet 7½ inches. Lejeune's throw was made at a baseball field day, was carefully measured and will stand as oilcial.

PEDESTRIANISM.

WESTON'S GREAT PERFORMANCE.

WESTON'S GREAT PERFORMANCE.
Edward P. Weston, who in 1909 walked from New York to San Francisco, starting March 15 and finishing July 14, bettered the performance in 1910 by walking from Los Angeles to New York in seventy-seven days. He left the California city Feb. 3 and arrived in New York May 2, beating his proposed schedule of ninety days by thirteen.
He followed the route of the Santa Fe railroad to Chicago, and after that the lines of the Lake Shore and New York Central roads. He did not walk on Sundays. He reached Albuquerque. N. M.,
Feb. 23; Kansas City. Mo., March 23; Chicago, April 4, and Albany, N. Y., April 27. His total mileage was 3,483. The performance was considered a remarkable one for a man 72 years 6f age.

SHORTHAND SPEED RECORDS.

Clyde H. Marshall of Kingston, N. Y., with an average of 268 words a minute, won the national shorthand reporting championship and cup at Denver, Col., Aug. 24, 1910. Willard B. Bottome of New York, holder of the title and ineligible for the cup again, broke the world's record with an average of 269 words a minute.

JOHNSON-JEFFRIES FIGHT IN RENO, NEV.

JOHNSON-JEFFRIES FIGHT IN RENO, NEV. The most important puglistic event of recent years was the contest in Reno, Nev., July 4, 1910, between James J. Jeffries and Jack Johnson (colred) for the heavy-weight championship of the world. Johnson proved an easy winner in fifteen rounds, the former champion, after six years' absence from the ring, failing to come back to his cld form. The fight was originally planned for San Francisco, but Gov. J. N. Gillett forbade it and Reno was selected. The contest was for a purse of $120,000, of which the winner received 60 per cent and the loser 40 per cent. The paid admissions to the fight were 15,760 and the total attendance 18,020. Tickets were sold at from $10 to 150 (ach, making the total gate receipts $270.775. Including profits from moving pictures, Johnson and Jeffries made more than $100.00e each out of the fight, while the promoters, Tex Rickard and Jack Gleason, made about the same amount.

THE AMERICA'S CUP.

RECORD OF RACES TO DATE.

RECORD OF BACES TO DATE.

1851—Aug. 22. In this, the year of the great exhibition in London, the Royal Yacht Club of England offered a cup to the winner of a yacht race around the Isle of Wight. The course was 60 miles in length and was won by the schooner-yacht America, designed by George Steers for John C. Stevens of the New York Yacht club. The America was 94 feet over all, 88 feet on the water line, 22½ feet beam and 11½ feet draft. There was no time allowance and the competing yachts ranged in size from a three-masted 392-ton schooner, the Brilliant, to the 47-ton cutter. the Aurora, which came in second in the race. The time of the America was 10 hours and 34 minutes; that of the Aurora was 24 minutes slower. The cup after that became known as the America's cup and has now been successfully defended for fifty-eight years.

THE EMPEROR'S CUP.

The first international ocean yacht race for a cup offered by the emperor of Germany was sailed in 1905. The course was from Sandy Hook, N. J., to the Lizard, England, a distance of approximately 3,000 miles. The Atlantic, which was sailed by Capt. Charles Barr, won the race, arriving at the Lizard at 9:16 p. m., May 29, and beating the best previous record, made by the Endymion, by one day and sixteen and one-half hours. The actual elapsed time was twelve days and four hours, and the best day's run was 341 miles. The Hamburg came in second May 30 and the Valhalla third May 31.

MOTORING.

[Compiled by C. G. Sinsabaugh.] GENERAL REVIEW.

Many chapters were added to motoring history in 1910, with the United States the center of activity. The season was most remarkable for the great speed made by Barney Oldfield at Daytona. Fla., where the driver of the Benz attained the greatest speed man ever traveled at-a mile at a pace equal to 131.28 miles an hour. The transcontinental record from New York to San Franciscowas smashed, a four-cylinder Reo making the trip across in ten days eighteen hours and twelve mintes. The twenty-four hour circular track record also was beaten, a Stearns covering 1.253 miles in the journey twice around the clock on the Brightalso was beaten, a Stearns covering 1,255 miles in the journey twice around the clock on the Brighton Beach track in New York city. The Glidden trophy, hung up in the national reliability run, was won by a Chalmers, driven by Bill Bolger, while the Chicago trophy, given by the Chicago Motor club to the winner of the roadster division of the same tour, was captured by C. II. Van Dervoort in a Moline.

Chicago again tried the road realing game the Chleago again tried the road racing game, the national stock chassis road races being run at Elgin, Ill., by the Chicago Motor club, with Mulford gin, Ill., by the Chicago Motor club, with Mulford in a Lozier winner of the Elgin national cup. Livingstone in a National winner of the Illinois trophy. Buck in a Marmon winner of the Kane Country trophy and Hearne in a Renz winner of the Fox River cup. The Vanderblit was remarkable from the fact that the same man who won it in 1999 "came back" and won the 1910 race—Grant in the same six-cylinder Alco he piloted in 1909. Gelnaw in a Falcar and Endicott in a Cole won the Wheatley Hills and the Massangenn trophics re-Wheatley Hills and the Massapequa trophies, respectively, the two minor events run in connection with the Vanderbilt.

The Fairmount park road race went to Len Zengel in a Chadwick, the finish being remarkable because Zengel only beat Mulford in the Lozier by less than six seconds, the closest road race in the history of the sport. There were so many accidents in connection with the Vanderbilt that the American Grand Prix, which was scheduled for the Long Island motor parkway on Oct. 15, was transferred to Savannah, Ga., for Nov. 12.

Circular track racing was remarkable because of The Fairmount park road race went to Len Zenthe fight for the mile record, which finally went to Ralph De Palma in the Flat, who did :48.92 at Syracuse, N. Y. On the speedway the competition was keen. The $10,000 Schebler trophy run at Indianapolis was won by Ray Harroun of Chicago in a Marmon, while the Cobe cup, raced for on the road in 1999, was won as a speedway race by Joe Dawson in a Marmon. The fastest speedway mile was :35.63, made at Indianapolis by Oldfield in a Benz. Benz.

VANDERBILT CUP RACE.

The conditions of the Vanderbilt cup race in 1909 were changed. Racing cars were larred and the event was open only to stock cars up to 600 cubic inches piston displacement. This race was run Oct. 30 over the Long Island motor parkway course. It was won by Harry F. Grant in a skty-horse-power Alco car in 4:25:42, or an average speed for the 278.08 miles of 62.85 miles an hour. In 1910 Grant, in the Alco, again won. Conditions again were changed and the race was open to cars under 600 cubic inches piston displacement. It virtually was a free-for-all, although the first five to finish were stock cars. finish were stock cars.

The 1910 Glidden tour started from Cincinnati, The 1910 Glidden tour started from Cheinnatt, O., and passed through thirteen states, ending in Chicago, a distance of 2.850 miles. Twenty-six cars started and eleven were running as contestants at the finish. The referee's decision gave the Glidden trophy to the Premier six, driven by Ray McNamara, but the Premier was protested by the Chalmers company, which chaimed it did not come fully up to stock-car specifications. The Premier company carried the matter to the New York state courts, securing a temporary injunction restraining the A. A. a a from awarding the Bildden trophy to the Chalmers. This injunction later was dissolved by the courts. The contest for the Chicago trophy awarded by the Chicago Motor club, for the roadster with the best score in the Glidden tour, was won by C. H. Van Dervoort, in a Moline.

ONE-MILE CIRCULAR-TRACK RECORD.

Twice in 1907 was the one-mile record on a circular track beaten. The record was :53, held by Barney Oldfield in a Peerless Green Dragon. Walter Christie in a front-drive racer of his own design cut this to :52 at Minneapolis Sept. 7 and Oct. 17 this was reduced to :51% by Lewis Strang, driving the Christie, at Birmingham, Ala. The fastest track mile is :48%, made at Morris Park, New York, in 1905, by Webb Jay in a White steamer. This mark was not accepted because there is only one turn in the track. In 1908 a successful attack was made upon Strang's record, Ralph De Palma, in a Fiat, reducing it to :51 at Minneapolis on Labor day. At Minneapolis, Sept. 11, 1909, De Palma still further reduced the record, doing :50% in his Fiat Cyclone. Several times in 1910 the record was beaten and the end of the season found it held by De Palma at :48.92, made at Syracuse, N. Y.

CHICAGO-NEW YORK RECORD.

The record by automobile between Chicago and New York is 39:53:00. It was made by a Franklin twenty-eight horse-power runabout Aug. 21-22, 1907. The route followed was via Elkhart. Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, Bochester, Syracuse, Utica, Newburgh and along the east side of the Hudson to New York. The distance was 1,650 miles. The previous record was 56:58:00, also made by a Franklin, a streething representation. six-cylinder car.

CHICAGO COMPETITIONS.

CHICAGO COMPETITIONS.

Chicago again was prominent in the promotion of events of national importance. Of course, the greatest of these were the national stock chassis road races at Eigin, run by the Chicago Motor club, which made heroes out of Mulford, Livingstone, Buck and Hearne. The Chicago Motor club also promoted an economy test to Lake Geneva and return earlier in the year, which was won by the Cole. The star of the fifth annual hill climb at Algonquin, Ill., was Arthur W. Greiner of Chicago, who won the Algonquin cup, driving a National. The Chicago Motor club wound up its year with its annual 1,000-mile reliability in November. The Chicago Antomobile club confined its efforts to the annual battle with the Chicago Athletic association. There were two interclub reliability team matches, both won by the Cherry Circle. The first was to St. Joe, Mich., and return and was the third of the series for the interclub shield. A fall match for the L. E. Myers trophy, run under the same rules and with the same two clubs represented, was to Waukesha, Wis., and return.

ATTEMPT TO ASSASSINATE MAYOR GAYNOR.

Mayor William J. Gayner of New York was shot and seriously wounded on the morning of Aug. 9, 1910. Just after he had boarded the Kaiser Wilhelm steamship to sail for Europe. His assailant was James J. Gallagher, a dismissed city dock watchman. Approaching the mayor, who was standing talking with a group of friends, Gallagher drew a revolver and fired three shots at the executive. Only one took effect, the bullet entering at the back of the neck and lodging in the vault of the pharynx. The mayor was hurried to a hospital, where for several days his condition was regarded as extremely critical. He finally recovered, how-ever, and left the hospital in September, Galla-gher, who claimed that Judge Gaynor had "taken away his bread and butter," was arrested imme-diately after the shooting.

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS.

The library of congress was established in 1800 in the city of Washington, D. C. It was burned in 1814 and in 1851 lost 35,000 volumes by fire. The present library building, which cost $6,347,000, was opened to the public in November, 1897. It is located a short distance east of the capitol and is the largest and finest building of its kind in the world.

June 30, 1909, the library contained 1,702,685 books and pamphlets, 111,343 maps, 501,293 pleces of music and 303,036 photographs, prints, engravings and lithographs. The copyright office is a distinct division of the library with its own force of employes. The total number of employes in the library is 474 and the annual cost of maintemance is now about $925,000.

THE CAPITOL IN WASHINGTON.

The corner stone of the original capitol building was laid by President Washington Sept. 18, 1793. The north wing was finished in 1810 and the south wing in 1811, a wooden passageway connecting them. The original designs of the structure were made by Dr. William Thornton. The two wings were burned by the British in 1814, but were immediately restored. In 1827 the original building was completed at a cost of $2.433,844.18. Extensions of the wings were begun in 1851 and completed in 1859. The dome, which is 287 feet 5 inches in height, was completed in 1865. The capitol stands in latitude 38 degrees 53 minutes 20.4 seconds north and longitude 77 degrees 00 minutes 35.7 seconds west from Greenwich. The area covered by the building is 153,112 square feet.

OCCURRENCES DURING PRINTING.

The following events occurred after many of the forms of the present edition of The Daily News Almanac and Year-Book had gone to press:
Orinoco Decision—The Hague arbitration court, Oct. 25, 1910, decided in favor of the Orinoco Steamship company in its claims for damages against Venezuels for violation of a contract. The company was awarded 346,867, with 3 per cent interest since June 16, 1903, and $7,000 costs.

Arbitration for America-Senator Elihu Root of Arbitration for America—Senator Elliu Root of New York was appointed permanent arbitrator rep-resenting America at The Hague. Dec. 3, 1910, succeeding Chief Justice Fuller, deceased. Solleitor-General—Frederick W. Lehmann of St. Louis was appointed solleitor-general of the United States Dec. 3, 1510, succeeding Lloyd W. Bowers. deceased Japanese Antarctic Expedition—The Japanese antarctic expedition under Lieut. Shirase left Yokohama Nov. 28, 1910, on the 150-ton schooner Kainan Maru.

British Flections—The British parliament was dissolved Nov. 28 and new elections began at once.

Up to Dec. 15 the liberal government coalition had elected 331 members and the unionist opposition 251. The dissolution was caused by the failure of the parliamentary leaders to agree upon a compromise between the house of lords and the house of commons with respect to the veto power of the commer.

Campaign Costs—The republican congressional campaign committee spent $74,373 and the demoratic committee $27.771 in the congressional campaign of 1910. Reports were filed by both committees Dec. 8 in accordance with the campaign fund publicity law.

STOCKYARDS FIRE CALAMITY.

Twenty-four men were crushed to death under a falling wall at a fire in Morris & Co.'s meat storage house in the Union stockyards, Chicagarly on the morning of Dec. 22, 1910. The victims included Fire Marshal James Horan, Second Assistant Fire Marshal William J. Burroughs, twenty other city firemen, a private foreman and a railway clerk. The disaster was caused by an explosion due to hot air expansion. The money loss was $750,000.

CHURCH AND STATE IN SPAIN.

May 31, 1910, the government of Spain issued an imperial decree that all religious orders not authorized by the concordat between Spain and the Vatican must be enrolled under the associations law of 1887 or be dissolved. This decree was followed June 11 by another amending the constitution and authorizing the edifices of noncatholic religious societies to display the insignia of public worship. These decrees were issued at the instance of Premier Canalejas, who, as a condition precedent to taking office (Feb. 9), exacted a promise from King Alfonso to agree to a plan of ecclesiatical reform. He approached the Vatican at once on the subject of concordat revision and the ecclesiatical authorities in Rome consented to consider the questions of state support, the holding of property and the rights of the monastic their houses of worship and to conduct their services publicly on an equal plane of freedom with the catholics, the Vatican insisted that this decree must be withdrawn before the discussion of the colcordat could be resumed. This position was resented by the Spanish government as an ultimatum and July 29 it was announced in Madrid that Marquis Emilio de Ofeda. Spanish ambassador to the Vatican, had been recalled. This act was described by Premier Canalejas as "an indefinite suspenison of negotiations."

The rupture between the Vatican and the government led to demonstrations of disapproval by some of the clericals and their adherents, who roposed to hold an immense meeting of protest at $an Sebastian on Sunday, Aug. 7. This was forbidden by the government, which took strong military precautions to prevent any insurrectionary movements and the meeting was abandon d.
